REDS SEEN ACCEPTING TRUCE PLAN

11 Red Jets Are Destroyed On Ground

U. S. Raiders Blast Planes South Of Yalu

First Time MIGs Caught On Ground

SEOUL, Korea, Monday, Nov. 19 (AP) — Eleven Communist jet planes, caught on the ground in Korea for the first time in the war, were smashed Sunday by American raiders.

Seven other MIGs were hit in three air-to-air fights over North Korea.

In the sharpening land warfare, an Allied division gained almost another mile on the central front, making a total of three since its limited offensive began Saturday.

There were heavy engagements elsewhere along th front while Allied officers assayed the ominous significance of the Red air move into Korea.

Three MIGs Escape

The pilots of two F-86 Sabre jets reported they destroyed two Russian-built MIG jets which blew up, demolished four others, and badly damaged five in a single low strafing run on the Uiju airstrip. Three other MIGs escaped by making quick takeoffs.

This field is on the south bank of the Yalu River inside North Korea. It is 10 miles northeast of the big Communist air base at Antung, Manchuria, which Allied airmen are forbidden to attack.

"This is the first time I know of that the MIGs have landed in North Korea," said a Fifth Air Force spokesman, Maj. William S. Waltman, Grand Rapids, Mich.

He said the MIGs were caught completely by surprise and not a shot was fired at the American pilot.

The Reds are building three other airfields 50 miles inside Korea, at Namsi, Taechon and Saacham, but have been prevented from using them by nightly American B-29 raids.

One MIG Shot Down

In the Sunday air fights, the Fifth Air Force reported one MIG was shot down, one probably shot down and five were damaged. One U. S. F-84 Thunderbolt was reported lost but its pilot was rescued after bailing out into the Yellow Sea.

GOP Will Center Senate Campaign On Eight States

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP) —Republicans will center their campaign largely on eight states in the 1952 effort to win control of the Senate, Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill) said today.

Dirksen heads the GOP senatorial campaign committee. He told a reporter he isn't making any claims now of a landslide victory but is concentrating on gaining a margin of from one to three votes over the Democrats.

The Democrats now outnumber GOP members 50 to 46 in the Senate and five of the 13 Democratic seats up next year are in the South where the Republicans have little chance of winning. Twenty Republican seats are at stake, nearly all in areas where the Democrats have a good chance.

Sees Swing To GOP

Dirksen said he thinks there is a "definite swing" at this time for the Republicans "on nearly every issue in the book." Nevertheless, he said he isn't predicting any tremendous overturn in the Senate. Some Democrats have contended even if they lost the presidency, they could continue in control of the Senate.

"We are naturally directing our campaign to eight states where there are Democratic senators running we think can be beaten," Dirksen said. "We believe we have a chance of capturing some of those seats while holding on to those of ours which are at stake in next year's election."

Maryland, West Virginia Named

He named the eight states as Connecticut, Maryland, Michigan, West Virginia, Kentucky, New Mexico, Arizona and Wyoming. The Republicans held the Michigan seat until Sen. Arthur Vandenburg died and was replaced by a Democratic appointee, Sen. Blair Moody.

Arthur Vandenburg, Jr., son of the late senator, is being urged by some Republicans to become a candidate against Moody.

Connecticut, Maryland, New Mexico, Arizona and Wyoming all have Republican governors, Dirksen pointed out. He said their organizations are being counted upon to aid in electing GOP senators from those states.

U. N. Group To Pave Way For Arms Conference Is Proposed By West

Commission Would Be Empowered To Draft Treaties For Submission To World Parley

PARIS, Nov. 18 (AP) — Great Britain, France and the United States called on the United Nations today to create a 12-nation disarmament commission which would lay the groundwork for a world-wide arms reduction conference.

The proposed disarmament commission, which would replace the U. N.'s Conventional Armaments and Atomic Energy Commissions, would be empowered to draw up treaties for the "regulation, limitation and balanced reduction of all armed forces and all armaments."

These treaties would then be considered by the international disarmament conference to which non-U. N. members, such as Communist China, would be invited.

Acheson To Present Plan

The Western plan, putting into a concrete resolution their earlier declaration on the need for step-by-step disarmament and a count of all weapons including the atomic, will be presented to the U. N. General Assembly's Political Committee by U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson tomorrow morning.

The disarmament commission, to be made up of the 11 members of the Security Council and Canada, would be subject to the veto. This means that the Big Five—Britain, China, France, Russia and the United States—can kill action with a single "no" vote.

The Western powers asked that the commission begin its complex and difficult job within 30 days of the adoption of the resolution.

It left the question of when to call the disarmament conference up to the commission itself.

Soviet Russia's latest disarmament proposals, submitted to the General Assembly on Friday, directed a similar 12-nation commission to start work at once on the inspection and control of all weapons.

West Insists On Inspection

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky, who described the four-point proposal as a supplement to Russia's earlier call for a world-wide disarmament conference, asked that the commission report to the Security Council by Feb. 1, 1952, which presumably would be within the life of the current Assembly.

The Western resolution reiterates earlier insistence on the necessity for "progressive disclosure and verification on a continuing basis of all armed forces — including paramilitary, security and police forces—and all armaments, including atomic."

This means that the West wants an inventory of the world's arms stockpiles, and a foolproof system of inspection which will doublecheck on the statements of government concerning these death-dealing hoards.

RETURNS TO SCREEN — Mary Pickford (above) is returning to the screen after 19 years. She will star in the film, "The Library," Columbia Pictures announced yesterday. Her last film was "Secrets," made in 1933.

Three Perish As Fire Sweeps Chicago Hotel

Nine Are Injured; Evangelist Is Hero

CHICAGO, Nov. 18 (AP) — Fire swept a south side residential hotel in 22 degree temperature early today, killing three persons, injuring nine and leaving many homeless.

The spectacular blaze forced five residents to plunge from top floor windows of the four-story Norwood Hotel at 6400 Normal Ave. All were injured. The bodies of two men and a woman were found in their rooms in the south wing which was most severely damaged.

One of the heroes of the fire was a British evangelist, the Rev. Leonard Ravenhill, 44, of Oldham, England, who rescued a 74-year-old fellow mission worker, Thomas Haire of Lisburn, Ireland. He dropped the semi-conscious Haire from a fourth floor window, then jumped, himself.

Suffers Possible Leg Fracture

Mr. Ravenhill, from a hospital bed where he was being treated for possible leg fracture, hand burns and shock, gave this account:

"I thought of my friend, Tom, in th next room, and went over and awakened him.

"We went to the window near the fire escape, but flames were shooting up around it. There was a great deal of screaming and shouting. We went to another window. I held Tom's head out so he could get some air. I burned my hands on the bricks.

"Then I helped Tom out of the window and jumped, myself."

The two had been conducting a series of revival meetings here.

Those who leaped landed in an ice-crusted alley on the north side of the building.

Clerk Arouses Guests

Quick action by firemen who ran ladders up to the windows kept other trapped residents from jumping. Several had thrown mattresses to the ground and had rigged knotted ropes of bedclothing which hung from upper windowsills.

William Clarke, night clerk at the hotel, aroused many of the guests in time for them to leave the building without difficulty. He stayed at his switchboard ringing the hotel's 115 rooms until smoke drove him away.

Soviet Peace Plan Backed By Red China

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18 (AP)—Red China today endorsed Russia's four-point peace proposal made in the U. N. General Asembly and attacked the U. S. peace proposal as empty talk.

Peiping radio broadcast a statement by Foreign Minister Chou En-Lai setting forth his government's views. The broadcast, made in English and heard in San Francisco, quoted Chou:

"I am authorized x x x to express full agreement with this four-point peace proposal of the Soviet government." The proposal was set forth by Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky Nov. 8 at the U. N. General Assembly in Paris.

The Vishinsky proposal urged U. N. repudiation of the Atlantic pact and condemnation of foreign military bases; a cease-fire in Korea with withdrawal of troops from parallel 38 in 10 days and withdrawal of all foreign troops in three months; a world conference on armament reduction before June 1; and a five-power peace pact including Red China.

The Communist delegates at Panmunjom, Korea, including Red Chinese Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang, already have agreed on the battle line as the cease-fire line. There was no explanation of the sudden switch by Communist China.

However, the Chou statement may have forecast the Communist stand when the last item on the armistice agenda is reached. That deals with recommendations to the governments concerned on the withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea.

Madden To Ask Atrocity Probe

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP) — Congress will be asked in January to investigate the reports of atrocities in Korea in order to accumulate data for international trials similar to the war crimes proceedings after World War II.

Rep. Madden (D-Ind) said today he will ask for the inquiry. He heads a special House committee set up to dig into the facts of the alleged Russian massacre of 11,000 Polish officers early in the war, at Katyn forest in West Russia. He proposed to broaden his inquiry to include Communist barbarity in Korea.

The world was startled last week by reports from Korea that nearly 6,000 Allied prisoners of war—5,500 of them Americans — had been slaughtered by their Communist captors since the outbreak of the fighting there.

That atrocities have accurred has now been verified by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme Allied commander, but the estimated number is still the object of "top priority" messages being sent out by the Pentagon. Some skepticism has been expressed as to the 5,500 total.

Circus Manager Fined As Result Of Girl's Death

BALTIMORE, Nov. 18 (AP)—Sam T. Polack, 53-year-old Shrine Circus manager, was fined $50 by Magistrate John L. Berry here today for failure to have a net under aerial performers in the circus.

Evy Trostl, 17-year-old high wire performer, fell 50 feet to her death at the matinee performance of the circus Wednesday. There was no net in the ring at the time.

The state's attorney's office brought the charges against the Chicago circus man as a result of Miss Trostl's death.

The charges were filed under terms of a city statute enacted in 1879. It was believed this was the first time prosecution was brought about under the old law.

Runaway Girls' Adventure Ends In Tears, Ice Cream

BALTIMORE, Nov. 18 (AP) — The "working girl adventure" of two runaway girls from an elite Pennsylvania preparatory school ended in tears and ice cream at the Baltimore police headquarters today.

The students from Penn Hall Junior College and Preparatory School at Chambersburg, Pa., were identified by police as Marion Traendl and Nancy Steck, whose father, Gustave, owns a hotel in Sea Girt, N. J.

Both are 17 years old.

Police said the two ran away from Chambersburg Monday night rather than face discipline for unauthorized visits to a skating rink on Sunday.

Capt. George Risi, of the Norwalk, Conn., police, told this story:

He said the girls spent Monday night in Hagerstown, Md., west of Baltimore. There, he said, a friendly shoe salesman, whom he would not name, bought them bus tickets to Baltimore.

In Baltimore they registered in a rooming house under fictitious names. They took a job in an East Baltimore drug store as soda jerks to make enough money for a trip to Florida.

Meanwhile, news that Traendl was offering a $500 reward for information on his daughter reached the friendly shoe salesman. Baltimore police were alerted.

Then two sailors from Bainbridge, Md., naval training center who had been dating the girls, saw their pictures in a paper. They told their chaplain.

The chaplain also called police. Police found the girls on the chaplain's tip at work in the drug store.

Five Trapped In Home Are Burned To Death

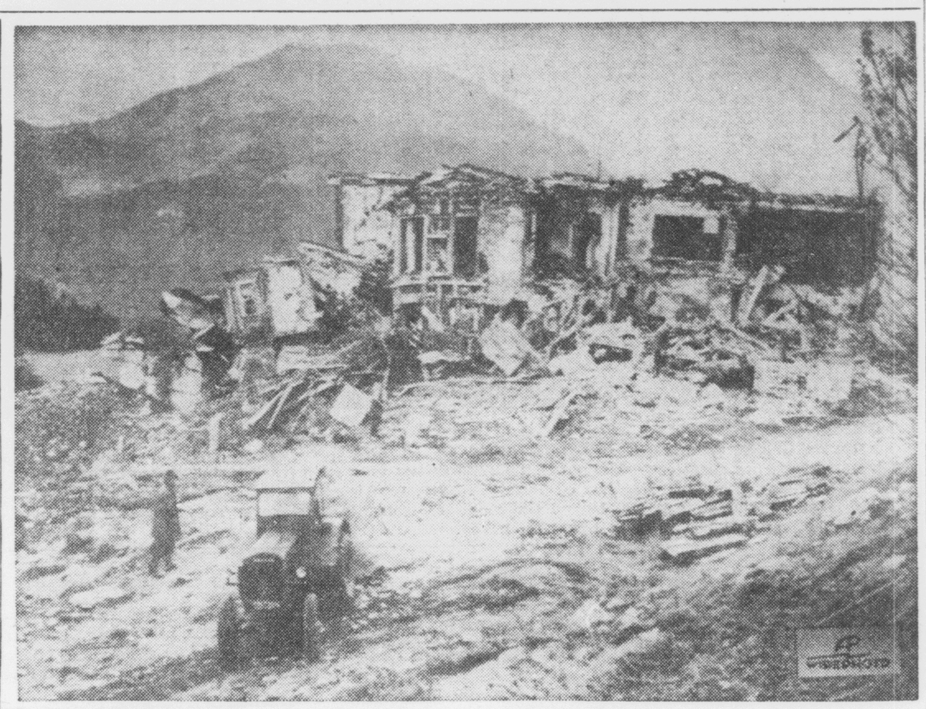

URBANA, O., Nov. 18 (AP) — Five members of one family burned to death early today when a jammed door trapped them in their flaming two-room home near Mutual in Central Ohio.

The dead are Ben Cantrell, 33, a tenant farmer; his wife, Helen, 20, and their children, Diane Lynn, 4; Patsy, 3, and Sharon Kay, 1.

Firemen recovered the bodies of Cantrell and the three children from the charred ruins of the house.

Sees Vinson Nominated

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP)—Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) said today he believed President Truman would not run for the presidency again. He expressed the belief that Supreme Court Chief Justice Vinson would be the Democratic candidate.

End Of Hermann Goering's Villa

Senator Urges Deeper Digging By Tax Probers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP) — Sen. Williams (R-Del) said today investigations of corruption in the government's tax collection machinery have "only scratched the surface."

He recommended "deeper digging" by congressional committees and called on the Truman administration for more cooperation.

"We've had no cooperation from the top officials in government in these exposures," said the senator whom Republican colleagues credit with starting the current congressional probes of the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Williams aired his views on a TV show.

Dunlap Fails To Appear

John B. Dunlap, chairman of the Internal Revenue Bureau, failed to appear on the program as scheduled. NBC officials said Dunlap was suddenly taken ill.

Robert Ramspeck, chairman of the Civil Service Commission, took his place. The subject for discussion: "Is There Enough Conscience In Government?"

Williams said he disagreed with a statement attributed to Dunlap recently that the charges of corruption in the bureau should be "played down" because out of 56,000 employes the situations studied had brought only 22 resignations, suspensions or firings.

"That's not the point," said the senator. "The point is that 10 per cent of your tax collecting facilities have been exposed to have been under the jurisdiction and operation of men who have been denounced as crooks."

Six Collectors Fired

Asked by Moderator Frank Blair to amplify his percentage figure, Williams said: "There are 62 collecting offices in the country and six collectors have been fired, charges made against them, some of them indicted and the others under grand jury investigation."

Williams advocated an independent audit of the books of the Internal Revenue bureau with the findings made available for congressional inspection.

He said also that tax collectors should be placed under Civil Service and appointed according to their qualifications.

Ramspeck agreed with both proposals.

Japan's Parliament Approves Peace Pact

TOKYO, Nov. 18 (AP) — Japan's parliament today approved the Japanese peace treaty and the U. S.-Japan security pact signed at San Francisco in September.

The House of Councillors voted 174 to 45 in favor of the peace treaty and 147 to 76 for the security pact.

On Oct. 26 the House of Representatives approved the treaty 307 to 47 and the pact 289 to 71.

A government official left tonight for NARA with the official ratification documents for the touring Emperor Hirohito to sign. His signature, expected Monday, will complete Japan's ratification.

The ratified documents will be taken to Washington by a foreign office representative, expected to leave here by plane Nov. 29.

MacArthur Pays Tribute To Mother As "Lovely Lady"

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 18 (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur paid tribute to his mother today as a "lovely lady" who taught him "a devotion to God and a love of country which have ever sustained me in many lonely and bitter moments of decision in distant and hostile lands."

Standing in a little garden set aside by the citizens of Norfolk as a memorial to the late Mary Pinckney Hardy MacArthur, the five-star general said "I can but yield anew a son's reverent thanks for her guidance to a path of duty as God gave me the light to see that duty."

MacArthur spoke at exercises dedicating the memorial garden, situated on his mother's birthplace.

Vincent Requests Prompt Hearing

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP) — Career Diplomat John Carter Vincent asked Senate internal security investigators today for a chance to deny publicly and under oath that he is or ever was a Communist.

His request for a prompt hearing, addressed to Sen. McCarran (D-Nev), was made public by the State Department.

McCarran is chairman of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, which is probing for any subversive influences on U. S. policies in the Far East.

Vincent lashed out at what he called the "false testimony" given the subcommittee by ex-Communist Louis Budenz about the 1944 mission that former Vice President Henry A. Wallace made to China.

Budenz, now a Fordham University professor, said he had heard in official party circles that Vincent and Owen Lattimore, who accompanied Wallace to China, were Communists who would guide his recommendations along party lines.

Now U. S. diplomatic agent and consul at Tangier, Vincent said in his letter to McCarran asking for a public hearing:

"Believe me,, this is not simply a matter of self-defense. The issue far transcends personal considerations. We cannot defend democracy with perfidy or defeat communism with lies."

Army Of 200,000 Fleeing Italian Floods; 100 Dead

ROVIGO, Italy, Nov. 18 (AP) — A wall of flood water five miles wide rolled slowly down the Po River toward the Adriatic today, completely engulfing the city of Adria and driving the 36,000 people of Cavarzere and Loreo from their homes.

The worst flood disaster in Italy's modern history was driving an army of nearly 200,000 refugees before it, and already had taken a death toll of at least 100. Hundreds of thousands of acres lay under the brown devastation. Damage amounted to uncounted millions of dollars.

Together with storms which hit Southern Italy and Sicily last month and took 110 lives, the flood was the worst natural disaster for Italy since the Messina earthquake of 1908.

Over 35,000 Marooned

Italian armed forces and civilian authorities marshaled all available amphibious equipment tonight in an effort to save more than 35,000 persons marooned in the delta of the rampaging Po.

The army, which has taken over direction of rescue and police duties, worked throughout last night to rescue 6,000 persons from roofs, treetops, and hilltops. American and British servicemen from Trieste helped man landing barges and amphibious vehicles for rescue work.

Waves of muddy water 12 feet deep in some places rolled along, engulfing rich farm fields, villages, and towns. From resorts on Lakes Garda and Como, from Venice and from Rimini boats of all kinds and sizes were en route by truck, train and water to the flood area. Aerial forces building up at Treviso will include three helicopters. British and American planes may join Italian aircraft in dropping food to the flood victims.

Pope Appeals For Aid

In all major Italian cities and towns, subscriptions have been opened for a flood relief fund. Tonight Pope Pius XII called on the Catholic world to come to the aid of the stricken Italians.

Most of the harried refugees in the Po delta were huddled in the upper stories of buildings and in hilltop villages.

Father Fears Six Convicted WACs May Harm Daughter

MOUNT VERNON, O., Nov. 18 (AP) —The father of a 20-year-old WAC who was kicked and beaten at Camp Breckinridge, Ky., said today he feared for her safety because of the conviction of her six WAC assailants.

Marshall E. Kierce, a Railway Express agent here, said his daughter, PFC Carol Ann Kierce, may be transferred to another Army base for "her own safety." Kierce told a reporter the WAC assailants had threatened "to get" Carol if she told anyone about the beating.

The Army disclosed yesterday six WAC sergeants were convicted of assault and battery on Carol and were sentenced to prison terms ranging from one to 2½ years. The incident occurred Oct. 4 and the WACs were tried by court-martial last week.

Kierce told a reporter he had requested Rep. J. Harry McGregor (R-Ohio) to investigate the beating. McGregor, said Kierce, is conducting an investigation.

Kierce said Carol telephoned him 10 days after the incident. He said Carol gave this version of the incident:

Carol had testified as a witness in the court-martial of a friend of the six WACs. Carol had "witnessed an affair" involving the WAC who was court-martialed.

The six WACs "lured her to a lonely river road near Camp Breckinridge" Oct. 4 and kicked and beat her until she was unconscious. Two of the WACs threatened to "throw her into the river," but Carol persuaded them to take her back to camp.

U. N. Proposal May End War By Christmas

Enemy May Ask Some Re-Phrasing

MUNSAN, Korea, Monday, Nov. 19 (AP)—Communist cease-fire delegates were expected to give at least a provisional "yes" today to a United Nations command plan for ending the Korean fighting before Christmas.

The Red reply was anticipated at the 26th subcommittee session, which started at Panmunjom at 11 a. m., (9 p. m., Sunday, E.S.T.)

Advance indications were that the Reds would agree to the Allied four-point proposal to complete an armistice within 30 days. The proposal was submitted Saturday.

On Sunday the Communists asked clarification on a number of points. The United Nations spokesman, Lt. Col. Howard S. Levie, said the Reds "appeared satisfied with the answers they received."

At Panmunjom Communist correspondents, who frequently serve as unofficial Red spokesmen, said they felt their side would offer no serious opposition to the U. N. proposal.

May Ask Some Re-Phrasing

However, the Communist correspondents indicated some re-phrasing might be suggested, particularly to clarify point 4.

The four Allied points were:

1. Hostilities to continue until an armistice is signed;

2. The present battle line to be a provisional cease-fire line;

3. This line to become final if a full armistice is reached within 30 days; and

4. If the armistice is not reached within 30 days, negotiations will start over by drawing a new cease-fire line based on whatever the battle line may be at that time.

The fourth point goes on to say that a new cease-fire line would "be effective under such conditions as will be at that mutually agreed to be the delegations of both sides."

The Communists apparently want clarification as to just what that means.

Reds Referred To Text

The Reds also asked when the 30-day period would begin.

Allied subdelegates referred them to the text of the proposal, which says the provisional cease-fire line will be the permanent line "in any armistice signed within 30-days after this agreement is accepted by the two delegations in plenary session."

At that point the Reds asked for a recess until today to give them a chance to study the proposal in the light of U. N. replies to their questions.

The U. N. command sprang its new compromise plan Saturday in an effort to break the deadlock on when to set the cease-fire buffer zone in operation. For more than a week the two sides have differed only on the time the line was to be drawn—not on how it should be drawn.

Another Briton Killed In Egypt

ISMAILIA, Egypt, Nov. 18 (AP) — Continued clashes between Egyptian police and British troops occurred here today. One Briton was killed and two were wounded, a British spokesman said.

The spokesman described today's outbreak as a "continuation of Saturday night's trouble, in which a British army officer was killed.

Ismailia is in the Suez Canal zone about 40 miles south of Port Said. It was there that the first anti-British riot broke out in the canal zone after Egypt denounced her 1936 treaty with Britain on Oct. 15.

In Cairo, the Egyptian interior minister's office announced that nine Egyptians and four British soldiers had been killed today in the Ismailia fighting.

Interior Minister Fouad Serag El Din described the gun battle as involving a "big British force" centered around the Egyptian governate and Egyptian police barracks and said it lasted for several hours.

Truck Driver Killed In Crash With Train

ELBURN, Ill., Nov. 18 (AP) — A trailer truck loaded with butter burst into flames today after colliding with a twin-Diesel engine of a Chicago and North Western passenger train.

Fire flared after the truck's fuel tank burst.

The truck driver, Bernard Hessler, Baltimore, Md., was burned to death. Although the fire enveloped part of the engine on the eastbound train, the City of Portland, no one else was injured.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18 (AP) — Fire swept a south side residential hotel in 22 degree temperature early today, killing three persons, injuring nine and leaving many homeless.

The spectacular blaze forced five residents to plunge from top floor windows of the four-story Norwood Hotel at 6400 Normal Ave. All were injured. The bodies of two men and a woman were found in their rooms in the south wing which was most severely damaged.

One of the heroes of the fire was a British evangelist, the Rev. Leonard Ravenhill, 44, of Oldham, England, who rescued a 74-year-old fellow mission worker, Thomas Haire of Lisburn, Ireland. He dropped the semi-conscious Haire from a fourth floor window, then jumped, himself.

Suffers Possible Leg Fracture

Mr. Ravenhill, from a hospital bed where he was being treated for possible leg fracture, hand burns and shock, gave this account:

"I thought of my friend, Tom, in th next room, and went over and awakened him.

"We went to the window near the fire escape, but flames were shooting up around it. There was a great deal of screaming and shouting. We went to another window. I held Tom's head out so he could get some air. I burned my hands on the bricks.

"Then I helped Tom out of the window and jumped, myself."

The two had been conducting a series of revival meetings here.

Those who leaped landed in an ice-crusted alley on the north side of the building.

Clerk Arouses Guests

Quick action by firemen who ran ladders up to the windows kept other trapped residents from jumping. Several had thrown mattresses to the ground and had rigged knotted ropes of bedclothing which hung from upper windowsills.

William Clarke, night clerk at the hotel, aroused many of the guests in time for them to leave the building without difficulty. He stayed at his switchboard ringing the hotel's 115 rooms until smoke drove him away.

Madden To Ask Atrocity Probe

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP) — Congress will be asked in January to investigate the reports of atrocities in Korea in order to accumulate data for international trials similar to the war crimes proceedings after World War II.

Rep. Madden (D-Ind) said today he will ask for the inquiry. He heads a special House committee set up to dig into the facts of the alleged Russian massacre of 11,000 Polish officers early in the war, at Katyn forest in West Russia. He proposed to broaden his inquiry to include Communist barbarity in Korea.

The world was startled last week by reports from Korea that nearly 6,000 Allied prisoners of war—5,500 of them Americans — had been slaughtered by their Communist captors since the outbreak of the fighting there.

That atrocities have accurred has now been verified by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme Allied commander, but the estimated number is still the object of "top priority" messages being sent out by the Pentagon. Some skepticism has been expressed as to the 5,500 total.

Circus Manager Fined As Result Of Girl's Death

BALTIMORE, Nov. 18 (AP)—Sam T. Polack, 53-year-old Shrine Circus manager, was fined $50 by Magistrate John L. Berry here today for failure to have a net under aerial performers in the circus.

Evy Trostl, 17-year-old high wire performer, fell 50 feet to her death at the matinee performance of the circus Wednesday. There was no net in the ring at the time.

The state's attorney's office brought the charges against the Chicago circus man as a result of Miss Trostl's death.

The charges were filed under terms of a city statute enacted in 1879. It was believed this was the first time prosecution was brought about under the old law.

Firemen recovered the bodies of Cantrell and the three children from the charred ruins of the house.

Runaway Girls' Adventure Ends In Tears, Ice Cream

BALTIMORE, Nov. 18 (AP) — The "working girl adventure" of two runaway girls from an elite Pennsylvania preparatory school ended in tears and ice cream at the Baltimore police headquarters today.

The students from Penn Hall Junior College and Preparatory School at Chambersburg, Pa., were identified by police as Marion Traendl and Nancy Steck, whose father, Gustave, owns a hotel in Sea Girt, N. J.

Both are 17 years old.

Police said the two ran away from Chambersburg Monday night rather than face discipline for unauthorized visits to a skating rink on Sunday.

Capt. George Risi, of the Norwalk, Conn., police, told this story:

He said the girls spent Monday night in Hagerstown, Md., west of Baltimore. There, he said, a friendly shoe salesman, whom he would not name, bought them bus tickets to Baltimore.

In Baltimore they registered in a rooming house under fictitious names. They took a job in an East Baltimore drug store as soda jerks to make enough money for a trip to Florida.

Meanwhile, news that Traendl was offering a $500 reward for information on his daughter reached the friendly shoe salesman. Baltimore police were alerted.

Then two sailors from Bainbridge, Md., naval training center who had been dating the girls, saw their pictures in a paper. They told their chaplain.

The chaplain also called police. Police found the girls on the chaplain's tip at work in the drug store.

End Of Hermann Goering's Villa

Workers start demolition of what was once Hermann Goering's luxurious villa at Obersalzberg as razing of Hitler's Berchtesgaden retreat begins. The Bavarian government will establish a youth center there with money received under the contract with the wrecking firm. Goering, as No. 2 Nazi, had one of the homes that were part of the Obersalzberg establishment built by Hitler.

Senator Urges Deeper Digging By Tax Probers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP) — Sen. Williams (R-Del) said today investigations of corruption in the government's tax collection machinery have "only scratched the surface."

He recommended "deeper digging" by congressional committees and called on the Truman administration for more cooperation.

"We've had no cooperation from the top officials in government in these exposures," said the senator whom Republican colleagues credit with starting the current congressional probes of the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Williams aired his views on a TV show.

Dunlap Fails To Appear

John B. Dunlap, chairman of the Internal Revenue Bureau, failed to appear on the program as scheduled. NBC officials said Dunlap was suddenly taken ill.

Robert Ramspeck, chairman of the Civil Service Commission, took his place. The subject for discussion: "Is There Enough Conscience In Government?"

Williams said he disagreed with a statement attributed to Dunlap recently that the charges of corruption in the bureau should be "played down" because out of 56,000 employes the situations studied had brought only 22 resignations, suspensions or firings.

"That's not the point," said the senator. "The point is that 10 per cent of your tax collecting facilities have been exposed to have been under the jurisdiction and operation of men who have been denounced as crooks."

Six Collectors Fired

Asked by Moderator Frank Blair to amplify his percentage figure, Williams said: "There are 62 collecting offices in the country and six collectors have been fired, charges made against them, some of them indicted and the others under grand jury investigation."

Williams advocated an independent audit of the books of the Internal Revenue bureau with the findings made available for congressional inspection.

He said also that tax collectors should be placed under Civil Service and appointed according to their qualifications.

Ramspeck agreed with both proposals.

Japan's Parliament Approves Peace Pact

TOKYO, Nov. 18 (AP) — Japan's parliament today approved the Japanese peace treaty and the U. S.-Japan security pact signed at San Francisco in September.

The House of Councillors voted 174 to 45 in favor of the peace treaty and 147 to 76 for the security pact.

On Oct. 26 the House of Representatives approved the treaty 307 to 47 and the pact 289 to 71.

A government official left tonight for NARA with the official ratification documents for the touring Emperor Hirohito to sign. His signature, expected Monday, will complete Japan's ratification.

The ratified documents will be taken to Washington by a foreign office representative, expected to leave here by plane Nov. 29.

MacArthur Pays Tribute To Mother As "Lovely Lady"

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 18 (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur paid tribute to his mother today as a "lovely lady" who taught him "a devotion to God and a love of country which have ever sustained me in many lonely and bitter moments of decision in distant and hostile lands."

Standing in a little garden set aside by the citizens of Norfolk as a memorial to the late Mary Pinckney Hardy MacArthur, the five-star general said "I can but yield anew a son's reverent thanks for her guidance to a path of duty as God gave me the light to see that duty."

MacArthur spoke at exercises dedicating the memorial garden, situated on his mother's birthplace.

Vincent Requests Prompt Hearing

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP) — Career Diplomat John Carter Vincent asked Senate internal security investigators today for a chance to deny publicly and under oath that he is or ever was a Communist.

His request for a prompt hearing, addressed to Sen. McCarran (D-Nev), was made public by the State Department.

McCarran is chairman of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, which is probing for any subversive influences on U. S. policies in the Far East.

Vincent lashed out at what he called the "false testimony" given the subcommittee by ex-Communist Louis Budenz about the 1944 mission that former Vice President Henry A. Wallace made to China.

Budenz, now a Fordham University professor, said he had heard in official party circles that Vincent and Owen Lattimore, who accompanied Wallace to China, were Communists who would guide his recommendations along party lines.

Now U. S. diplomatic agent and consul at Tangier, Vincent said in his letter to McCarran asking for a public hearing:

"Believe me, this is not simply a matter of self-defense. The issue far transcends personal considerations. We cannot defend democracy with perfidy or defeat communism with lies."

Army Of 200,000 Fleeing Italian Floods; 100 Dead

ROVIGO, Italy, Nov. 18 (AP) — A wall of flood water five miles wide rolled slowly down the Po River toward the Adriatic today, completely engulfing the city of Adria and driving the 36,000 people of Cavarzere and Loreo from their homes.

The worst flood disaster in Italy's modern history was driving an army of nearly 200,000 refugees before it, and already had taken a death toll of at least 100. Hundreds of thousands of acres lay under the brown devastation. Damage amounted to uncounted millions of dollars.

Together with storms which hit Southern Italy and Sicily last month and took 110 lives, the flood was the worst natural disaster for Italy since the Messina earthquake of 1908.

Over 35,000 Marooned

Italian armed forces and civilian authorities marshaled all available amphibious equipment tonight in an effort to save more than 35,000 persons marooned in the delta of the rampaging Po.

The army, which has taken over direction of rescue and police duties, worked throughout last night to rescue 6,000 persons from roofs, treetops, and hilltops. American and British servicemen from Trieste helped man landing barges and amphibious vehicles for rescue work.

Waves of muddy water 12 feet deep in some places rolled along, engulfing rich farm fields, villages, and towns. From resorts on Lakes Garda and Como, from Venice and from Rimini boats of all kinds and sizes were en route by truck, train and water to the flood area. Aerial forces building up at Treviso will include three helicopters. British and American planes may join Italian aircraft in dropping food to the flood victims.

Pope Appeals For Aid

In all major Italian cities and towns, subscriptions have been opened for a flood relief fund. Tonight Pope Pius XII called on the Catholic world to come to the aid of the stricken Italians.

Most of the harried refugees in the Po delta were huddled in the upper stories of buildings and in hilltop villages.

Father Fears Six Convicted WACs May Harm Daughter

MOUNT VERNON, O., Nov. 18 (AP) —The father of a 20-year-old WAC who was kicked and beaten at Camp Breckinridge, Ky., said today he feared for her safety because of the conviction of her six WAC assailants.

Marshall E. Kierce, a Railway Express agent here, said his daughter, PFC Carol Ann Kierce, may be transferred to another Army base for "her own safety." Kierce told a reporter the WAC assailants had threatened "to get" Carol if she told anyone about the beating.

The Army disclosed yesterday six WAC sergeants were convicted of assault and battery on Carol and were sentenced to prison terms ranging from one to 2½ years. The incident occurred Oct. 4 and the WACs were tried by court-martial last week.

Kierce told a reporter he had requested Rep. J. Harry McGregor (R-Ohio) to investigate the beating. McGregor, said Kierce, is conducting an investigation.

Kierce said Carol telephoned him 10 days after the incident. He said Carol gave this version of the incident:

Carol had testified as a witness in the court-martial of a friend of the six WACs. Carol had "witnessed an affair" involving the WAC who was court-martialed.

The six WACs "lured her to a lonely river road near Camp Breckinridge" Oct. 4 and kicked and beat her until she was unconscious. Two of the WACs threatened to "throw her into the river," but Carol persuaded them to take her back to camp.

U. N. Proposal May End War By Christmas

Enemy May Ask Some Re-Phrasing

MUNSAN, Korea, Monday, Nov. 19 (AP)—Communist cease-fire delegates were expected to give at least a provisional "yes" today to a United Nations command plan for ending the Korean fighting before Christmas.

The Red reply was anticipated at the 26th subcommittee session, which started at Panmunjom at 11 a. m., (9 p. m., Sunday, E.S.T.)

Advance indications were that the Reds would agree to the Allied four-point proposal to complete an armistice within 30 days. The proposal was submitted Saturday.

On Sunday the Communists asked clarification on a number of points. The United Nations spokesman, Lt. Col. Howard S. Levie, said the Reds "appeared satisfied with the answers they received."

At Panmunjom Communist correspondents, who frequently serve as unofficial Red spokesmen, said they felt their side would offer no serious opposition to the U. N. proposal.

May Ask Some Re-Phrasing

However, the Communist correspondents indicated some re-phrasing might be suggested, particularly to clarify point 4.

The four Allied points were:

1. Hostilities to continue until an armistice is signed;

2. The present battle line to be a provisional cease-fire line;

3. This line to become final if a full armistice is reached within 30 days; and

4. If the armistice is not reached within 30 days, negotiations will start over by drawing a new cease-fire line based on whatever the battle line may be at that time.

The fourth point goes on to say that a new cease-fire line would "be effective under such conditions as will be at that mutually agreed to be the delegations of both sides."

The Communists apparently want clarification as to just what that means.

Reds Referred To Text

The Reds also asked when the 30-day period would begin.

Allied subdelegates referred them to the text of the proposal, which says the provisional cease-fire line will be the permanent line "in any armistice signed within 30-days after this agreement is accepted by the two delegations in plenary session."

At that point the Reds asked for a recess until today to give them a chance to study the proposal in the light of U. N. replies to their questions.

The U. N. command sprang its new compromise plan Saturday in an effort to break the deadlock on when to set the cease-fire buffer zone in operation. For more than a week the two sides have differed only on the time the line was to be drawn—not on how it should be drawn.

Another Briton Killed In Egypt

ISMAILIA, Egypt, Nov. 18 (AP) — Continued clashes between Egyptian police and British troops occurred here today. One Briton was killed and two were wounded, a British spokesman said.

The spokesman described today's outbreak as a "continuation of Saturday night's trouble, in which a British army officer was killed.

Ismailia is in the Suez Canal zone about 40 miles south of Port Said. It was there that the first anti-British riot broke out in the canal zone after Egypt denounced her 1936 treaty with Britain on Oct. 15.

In Cairo, the Egyptian interior minister's office announced that nine Egyptians and four British soldiers had been killed today in the Ismailia fighting.

Interior Minister Fouad Serag El Din described the gun battle as involving a "big British force" centered around the Egyptian governate and Egyptian police barracks and said it lasted for several hours.

Johnson, Reed Oppose Tax Hike

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP) — President Truman's evident plan to ask Congress for more taxes brought challenging opposition today from a Democratic senator and a Republican House member.

Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo), a member of the Senate Finance Committee, asserted that he personally "positively will not vote for any more taxes."

Johnson said on a television program that if the Senate committee ever agrees to boost levies "I'd be so surprised I'd fall right out of this chair."

Rep. Reed of New York, top Republican on the House Ways and Means Committee which originates tax legislation, told a reporter he thinks Congress "will promptly reject any request from the White House for higher taxes."

Chairman George (D-Ga) of the Finance Committee which handles tax measures on the Senate side of the Capitol, said at the last session that he had voted for his last tax boost.

A number of other lawmakers expressed similar ideas as the last session passed a $5,691,000,000 tax raise, sharply cut below Mr. Truman's asking figure of $10,000,000,000.

Red China Makes Hay In Its Drive For India Friendship

By SELIG S. HARRISON

NEW DELHI—(AP)—Red China is out to show India that everything's rosy behind the bamboo curtain.

Top priority in the new Peiping drive for Indian friendship goes to winning sympathizers in the ranks of respected, non-Communist molders of Indian opinion.

China recently suggested an exchange of cultural missions and Peipings 15-man delegation will end a six-week tour of India in early December. India has promised an official return visit after the spring elections.

Meanwhile, 13 prominent Indians who accepted "unofficial" invitations to attend the October celebration of the Communist regime's founding have returned from 30 days in China in unanimous agreement that India need not fear for the safety of her northern borders.

Their verdict comes at a time when the Chinese visitors bask in publicity and India's Peiping envoy, K. M. Panikkar, is in Delhi with glowing accounts of Chinese achievements under the new government.

Prominent non-Communist delegates in the returning India group enthusiastically joined the chorus that greater understanding between New Delhi and Peiping is desirable and possible.

"There is absolutely no conflict between us in spheres of influence and territory," commented Dr. V. K. R. V. Rao, head of the Delhi University School of Economics and former chairman of the United Nations Subcommission on Economic Development.

"The Chinese need our friendship as badly as we need theirs, and for that reason above all I believe them when they say they have no aggressive designs," he said in an interview.

"Even if their influence does extend, it would be in Southeast Asia, pretty far from us."

Mrs. Hannah Sen, India's representative on the U. N. Commission on the Status of Women and president of the All-India Women's Conference, reported that she had changed her mind about China.

"I had always felt that with their form of government, they necessarily had an expansionist policy, which might endanger Indochina, Malaya, Burma and even India," she declared in an interview.

"Now I am convinced they are rather sincere at present when they say they have no imperialist aims. They make a good case for their needing Tibet as a safeguard.

"I feel they do not want to be embroiled in a big war. I am willing to give them the benefit of the doubt because without a generous attitude, we will alienate them from the rest of the world. It would be disastrous if China were allowed to form a solid bloc with Russia and her satellites."

Ambassador Panikkar has stressed in public speeches his view that China will become subservient to the Soviet Union only if she has nowhere else to turn for friendship.

Ambassador Panikkar, Rao, and Mrs Sen all insist the Communists' effective propoganda machine has won the genuine loyalty of nearly all the Chinese people.

"The United States is the only other country I can think of where I have seen so much active political discussion," Rao remarked.

What is America's most widely used form of thrift?

Life Insurance — owned by 83 million men, women, and children

83 million men, women and children—a greater number than put money aside in any other way—are life insurance policyholders. There are policyholders in 4 families out of 5.

These families, on the average, are protected by more than four policies apiece—people tend to add to their life insurance as income or needs increase.

While more and more women and children are being insured, the father or husband is most likely to be the principal policyholder.

For the first job of life insurance is to protect the family from loss of the breadwinner's earnings.

America's 83 million policyholders, through life insurance, are making America a better place to work in and to live in. They are providing for the future of their families and themselves. Their life insurance dollars are invested all over the country. And their healthy habit of thrift is one of the nation's strongest bulwarks against inflation.

Red China Makes Hay In Its Drive For India Friendship

By SELIG S. HARRISON

NEW DELHI—(AP)—Red China is out to show India that everything's rosy behind the bamboo curtain.

Top priority in the new Peiping drive for Indian friendship goes to winning sympathizers in the ranks of respected, non-Communist molders of Indian opinion.

China recently suggested an exchange of cultural missions and Peipings 15-man delegation will end a six-week tour of India in early December. India has promised an official return visit after the spring elections.

Meanwhile, 13 prominent Indians who accepted "unofficial" invitations to attend the October celebration of the Communist regime's founding have returned from 30 days in China in unanimous agreement that India need not fear for the safety of her northern borders.

Their verdict comes at a time when the Chinese visitors bask in publicity and India's Peiping envoy, K. M. Panikkar, is in Delhi with glowing accounts of Chinese achievements under the new government.

Prominent non-Communist delegates in the returning India group enthusiastically joined the chorus that greater understanding between New Delhi and Peiping is desirable and possible.

"There is absolutely no conflict between us in spheres of influence and territory," commented Dr. V. K. R. V. Rao, head of the Delhi University School of Economics and former chairman of the United Nations Subcommission on Economic Development.

"The Chinese need our friendship as badly as we need theirs, and for that reason above all I believe them when they say they have no aggressive designs," he said in an interview.

"Even if their influence does extend, it would be in Southeast Asia, pretty far from us."

Mrs. Hannah Sen, India's representative on the U. N. Commission on the Status of Women and president of the All-India Women's Conference, reported that she had changed her mind about China.

"I had always felt that with their form of government, they necessarily had an expansionist policy, which might endanger Indochina, Malaya, Burma and even India," she declared in an interview.

"Now I am convinced they are rather sincere at present when they say they have no imperialist aims. They make a good case for their needing Tibet as a safeguard.

"I feel they do not want to be embroiled in a big war. I am willing to give them the benefit of the doubt because without a generous attitude, we will alienate them from the rest of the world. It would be disastrous if China were allowed to form a solid bloc with Russia and her satellites."

Ambassador Panikkar has stressed in public speeches his view that China will become subservient to the Soviet Union only if she has nowhere else to turn for friendship.

Ambassador Panikkar, Rao, and Mrs Sen all insist the Communists' effective propoganda machine has won the genuine loyalty of nearly all the Chinese people.

"The United States is the only other country I can think of where I have seen so much active political discussion," Rao remarked.

What is America's most widely used form of thrift?

Life Insurance — owned by 83 million men, women, and children

83 million men, women and children—a greater number than put money aside in any other way—are life insurance policyholders. There are policyholders in 4 families out of 5.

These families, on the average, are protected by more than four policies apiece—people tend to add to their life insurance as income or needs increase.

While more and more women and children are being insured, the father or husband is most likely to be the principal policyholder.

For the first job of life insurance is to protect the family from loss of the breadwinner's earnings.

America's 83 million policyholders, through life insurance, are making America a better place to work in and to live in. They are providing for the future of their families and themselves. Their life insurance dollars are invested all over the country. And their healthy habit of thrift is one of the nation's strongest bulwarks against inflation.

Will Of Coal, Lumber Operator Upheld By Jury

Garrett County Suit Transferred Here

An Allegany County Circuit Court jury Saturday upheld the will left by a Garrett County lumberman and coal operator.

After deliberating 40 minutes, the jurors returned a verdict in favor of the will of the late Richard B. Bray, who died in July, 1948.

The suit transferred here from Garrett County was instituted in caveat action by the nieces and nephews of Bray, Pearl Bray Wilson, June D. O'Donnell, Virginia Bray Michael, Anna Bray Miller and Roy Cosner.

The defendant in the case was Lewis C. Bray, brother and executor of the estate of Bray.

The nieces and nephews contended that their uncle was not of sound mind, when he signed the will. They also declared that the will was produced by undue influence and was not signed in the presence of witnesses.

The history of the case shows that the Garrett County Orphans Court judges split on the petition filed in court to break the will.

The case then went to Garrett County Circuit Court and was removed to Allegany County Circuit Court last spring.

The will left the six nieces and nephews $50 apiece, and $1000 each to three grandnieces and grandnephews, with the farm and property owned by Bray to go to his brother, Lewis, who was also named executor, according to testimony presented yesterday.

Witnesses for the plaintiffs included Lewis Bray; a niece, June O'Donnell; Claude Rohrbaugh and Mrs. Stella Rohrbaugh, who signed the will as witnesses, and Dr. Ralph Calandrella, who was the deceased man's physician 17 years.

Witnesses for the defense included Peter Boyd, who drew up the will; Lewis Bray, Dr. Calandrella, Otha Sharpless and Dr. Samuel M. Jacobson, who treated the late lumberman.

Bray's nieces and nephews were represented by Stuart F. Hamill, Jr., Neil C. Fraley, and Walter W. Dawson, all of Garrett County, and Earl E. Manges, of this city.

Representing Lewis Bray were William R. Offutt, Asa T. Matthews and E. Ray Jones, all of Oakland.

For the first time in recent years, on Saturday, trials were underway simultaneously in the main Court room and the auxiliary court room.

With today's routine you can guard against — or correct — flabbiness resulting from hasty diet.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Most everyone with excess weight wants to reduce in a hurry — in spite of the fact that physicians all warn that reducing should be done slowly, with a steady program of diet and exercise.

As my correspondence attests, flabbiness is the penalty generally paid for too hasty a reducing program. Haggard lines in the throat, hollows in the collar bones, and loose, skinny effects in the chest and upper arms are the natural result of strenuous diet without exercise.

Repairs Assured

Such damage can be repaired, of course, but it takes a powerful amount of time, effort, and patience. If you are a victim, keep this fact in mind as you undertake the following corrective measures. And if you are about to embark on a strenuous reducing diet, start these exercises immediately so that you avoid any unhappy results.

You can have faith in the results of this routine, if you are willing to perform each exercise as though you were resisting a great weight. That's the secret of making them most effective. Ready? Start!

Stand with your feet astride. a. Swing both arms forward to shoulder level so that the thumbs touch. b. Swing the arms down and back and clasp the hands behind your hips. c. Swing them high over head and drop your head well back as you clasp hands. d. Return to position b. e. Reach forward at shoulder level and pull an imaginary and very heavy object toward your chest. Drop your head back as you pull. f. Reach to your sides at shoulder level pulling our arms back as far as possible, letting your head drop backwards. g. Reach above your head and pull toward your chest, again dropping your head.

Youthfulness Regained

Do this exercise five times a day for the first week, but gradually increase it to fifteen times daily. Always work slowly . . . as though you were working against resistance. Putting that push and power into each movement is the secret of firming your skin and muscle tone to the point of regaining the youthful look that should be yours.

Tomorrow: Holiday weddings.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—(INS)—The passing show:

Don't let me hear you say that the delegates to the U. N. Assembly in Paris have not achieved anything. They voted the other day to give themselves a 10-day Christmas vacation.

• — • — •

One of the best bills ever considered by the fathers of New York City, or any other U. S. city, is the one now pending which will license television repairmen and weed out some of those predatory bums who have been taking millions out of the pockets of bewildered set owners.

Science has so far surpassed human understanding that it has opened up a whole new world of gypping.

No man could compute the amount the motorists of this land have paid to conscienceless garage men who can find things wrong which escape the detection of car owners. No man could compute the total amount of money stolen in the name of fixing the country's asthmatic radios.

Television sets are so temperamental, and people in apartments are so exhausted by the time they wangle permission to install one, that unscrupulous repairmen have reaped a huge fortune in the often false name of repairs.

Probably not one tenth of one per cent of TV set owners have the faintest clue to the workings of those cycloptic packing cases in their parlors. If the gorilla from the corner repair shop pries off the back of a set, shakes his head, and says "Mac, your quadrilateral potentiometer has frizzumed the grid of tubes nine, eleven, seventeen and twenty three, so I gotta haul it outta here and rehabilitate the rheostate and conjugate the condenser," there's little Mac can do except mumble an assent.

The new law won't turn out all the rascals but it will help point out the honest repairmen, and save the bleeding set-owner a lot of grief.

There's a new profession in New York. Fellow named Simpson or Samson called me the other day and said, "Understand you're going on 'Who Said That?' Monday night. Well, I have a service that can supply you with a wealth of quotable quotes which you may possibly be asked on the show."

Imagine.

Nothing could have been more shocking than the release of those figures on the number of American and U. N. prisoners of war butchered by the Chinese and Korean Communists. Nothing.

But, if possible, it makes it worse to quibble over whether Col. Hanley should have told the story at this time, or told it at all. It seems to me that if the will of the people still guides the hand of its elected leaders those leaders must have the advantage of learning what that will is—and the only way to learn is to give the people enough information to stimulate that will and make it apparent.

You get the horrifying feeling, as Hanley finds himself in hot water with his superiors, that they might never have told the story. We have a new slaughter to consider, and the sooner the people know the ghastly score the sooner can justice move.

If it's 320 pages of unadulterated high (and true) adventure you're looking for, don't miss Lowell Thomas' new one "Back To Manalay" (Greystone Press)—the unforgettable story of the glider drop into Burma staged by Colonels Phil Cochran and Johnny Alison. Leaves you weak . . . . and proud.

"The Authority on Authorities"

GIVE RUFF AND DISCARD

ORDINARILY the lead of a suit, which the declarer can ruff in either of his holdings while discarding anything he wishes from the other, is just about as bad a defensive move as can be envisioned. But there are unusual circumstances in which it is the choice of all defense actions. One of those situations confronts you when your partner has doubled and obviously holds no real assets except in the trump suit if he also is blank in the suit chosen. That lead may enable him to conserve his trumps if declarer ruffs high and over-ruff if the declarer uses a low trump or discards.

East properly overtook the heart K lead with the A, since West might have had a singleton, then scored the Q and led the J. South ruffed with the spade eight, which West topped with the 10. The diamond 2 came back to the A, making the "book" for the defenders, so that any additional trick or tricks by them would constitute beating South by just that much. The size of the defenders' score now depended on what East did. He studied and studied. Finally, remembering the injunction against giving the declarer a ruff-and-discard and knowing nobody held any hearts except himself, he returned a diamond.

That tickled South. He won with the K, laid down the spade A, scored the diamond Q and J plus the club A and K, then led the spade 9, putting on the 3. This forced West to use the J in order to win, and he had to wind up leading from his spade Q-5 into the K-6 to give South the last two tricks and limit the set to one trick.

If East, after winning with his diamond A, had returned a heart, he would have given West what some players call a "fielder's choice." If South discarded or ruffed low, West could have won and still be assured of an additional trump trick. If South ruffed with the A or K, West could have discarded, preserving all of his trumps and thus being assured of two regular trump tricks.

Will Of Coal, Lumber Operator Upheld By Jury

Garrett County Suit Transferred Here

An Allegany County Circuit Court jury Saturday upheld the will left by a Garrett County lumberman and coal operator.

After deliberating 40 minutes, the jurors returned a verdict in favor of the will of the late Richard B. Bray, who died in July, 1948.

The suit transferred here from Garrett County was instituted in caveat action by the nieces and nephews of Bray, Pearl Bray Wilson, June D. O'Donnell, Virginia Bray Michael, Anna Bray Miller and Roy Cosner.

The defendant in the case was Lewis C. Bray, brother and executor of the estate of Bray.

The nieces and nephews contended that their uncle was not of sound mind, when he signed the will. They also declared that the will was produced by undue influence and was not signed in the presence of witnesses.

The history of the case shows that the Garrett County Orphans Court judges split on the petition filed in court to break the will.

The case then went to Garrett County Circuit Court and was removed to Allegany County Circuit Court last spring.

The will left the six nieces and nephews $50 apiece, and $1000 each to three grandnieces and grandnephews, with the farm and property owned by Bray to go to his brother, Lewis, who was also named executor, according to testimony presented yesterday.

Witnesses for the plaintiffs included Lewis Bray; a niece, June O'Donnell; Claude Rohrbaugh and Mrs. Stella Rohrbaugh, who signed the will as witnesses, and Dr. Ralph Calandrella, who was the deceased man's physician 17 years.

Witnesses for the defense included Peter Boyd, who drew up the will; Lewis Bray, Dr. Calandrella, Otha Sharpless and Dr. Samuel M. Jacobson, who treated the late lumberman.

Bray's nieces and nephews were represented by Stuart F. Hamill, Jr., Neil C. Fraley, and Walter W. Dawson, all of Garrett County, and Earl E. Manges, of this city.

Representing Lewis Bray were William R. Offutt, Asa T. Matthews and E. Ray Jones, all of Oakland.

For the first time in recent years, on Saturday, trials were underway simultaneously in the main Court room and the auxiliary court room.

With today's routine you can guard against — or correct — flabbiness resulting from hasty diet.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Most everyone with excess weight wants to reduce in a hurry — in spite of the fact that physicians all warn that reducing should be done slowly, with a steady program of diet and exercise.

As my correspondence attests, flabbiness is the penalty generally paid for too hasty a reducing program. Haggard lines in the throat, hollows in the collar bones, and loose, skinny effects in the chest and upper arms are the natural result of strenuous diet without exercise.

Repairs Assured

Such damage can be repaired, of course, but it takes a powerful amount of time, effort, and patience. If you are a victim, keep this fact in mind as you undertake the following corrective measures. And if you are about to embark on a strenuous reducing diet, start these exercises immediately so that you avoid any unhappy results.

You can have faith in the results of this routine, if you are willing to perform each exercise as though you were resisting a great weight. That's the secret of making them most effective. Ready? Start!

Stand with your feet astride. a. Swing both arms forward to shoulder level so that the thumbs touch. b. Swing the arms down and back and clasp the hands behind your hips. c. Swing them high over head and drop your head well back as you clasp hands. d. Return to position b. e. Reach forward at shoulder level and pull an imaginary and very heavy object toward your chest. Drop your head back as you pull. f. Reach to your sides at shoulder level pulling our arms back as far as possible, letting your head drop backwards. g. Reach above your head and pull toward your chest, again dropping your head.

Youthfulness Regained

Do this exercise five times a day for the first week, but gradually increase it to fifteen times daily. Always work slowly . . . as though you were working against resistance. Putting that push and power into each movement is the secret of firming your skin and muscle tone to the point of regaining the youthful look that should be yours.

Tomorrow: Holiday weddings.

GIVE RUFF AND DISCARD

ORDINARILY the lead of a suit, which the declarer can ruff in either of his holdings while discarding anything he wishes from the other, is just about as bad a defensive move as can be envisioned. But there are unusual circumstances in which it is the choice of all defense actions. One of those situations confronts you when your partner has doubled and obviously holds no real assets except in the trump suit if he also is blank in the suit chosen. That lead may enable him to conserve his trumps if declarer ruffs high and over-ruff if the declarer uses a low trump or discards.

East properly overtook the heart K lead with the A, since West might have had a singleton, then scored the Q and led the J. South ruffed with the spade eight, which West topped with the 10. The diamond 2 came back to the A, making the "book" for the defenders, so that any additional trick or tricks by them would constitute beating South by just that much. The size of the defenders' score now depended on what East did. He studied and studied. Finally, remembering the injunction against giving the declarer a ruff-and-discard and knowing nobody held any hearts except himself, he returned a diamond.

That tickled South. He won with the K, laid down the spade A, scored the diamond Q and J plus the club A and K, then led the spade 9, putting on the 3. This forced West to use the J in order to win, and he had to wind up leading from his spade Q-5 into the K-6 to give South the last two tricks and limit the set to one trick.

If East, after winning with his diamond A, had returned a heart, he would have given West what some players call a "fielder's choice." If South discarded or ruffed low, West could have won and still be assured of an additional trump trick. If South ruffed with the A or K, West could have discarded, preserving all of his trumps and thus being assured of two regular trump tricks.

NEW YORK—(INS)—The passing show:

Don't let me hear you say that the delegates to the U. N. Assembly in Paris have not achieved anything. They voted the other day to give themselves a 10-day Christmas vacation.

• — • — •

One of the best bills ever considered by the fathers of New York City, or any other U. S. city, is the one now pending which will license television repairmen and weed out some of those predatory bums who have been taking millions out of the pockets of bewildered set owners.

Science has so far surpassed human understanding that it has opened up a whole new world of gypping.

No man could compute the amount the motorists of this land have paid to conscienceless garage men who can find things wrong which escape the detection of car owners. No man could compute the total amount of money stolen in the name of fixing the country's asthmatic radios.

Television sets are so temperamental, and people in apartments are so exhausted by the time they wangle permission to install one, that unscrupulous repairmen have reaped a huge fortune in the often false name of repairs.

Probably not one tenth of one per cent of TV set owners have the faintest clue to the workings of those cycloptic packing cases in their parlors. If the gorilla from the corner repair shop pries off the back of a set, shakes his head, and says "Mac, your quadrilateral potentiometer has frizzumed the grid of tubes nine, eleven, seventeen and twenty three, so I gotta haul it outta here and rehabilitate the rheostate and conjugate the condenser," there's little Mac can do except mumble an assent.

The new law won't turn out all the rascals but it will help point out the honest repairmen, and save the bleeding set-owner a lot of grief.

• — • — •

There's a new profession in New York. Fellow named Simpson or Samson called me the other day and said, "Understand you're going on 'Who Said That?' Monday night. Well, I have a service that can supply you with a wealth of quotable quotes which you may possibly be asked on the show."

Imagine.

Nothing could have been more shocking than the release of those figures on the number of American and U. N. prisoners of war butchered by the Chinese and Korean Communists. Nothing.

But, if possible, it makes it worse to quibble over whether Col. Hanley should have told the story at this time, or told it at all. It seems to me that if the will of the people still guides the hand of its elected leaders those leaders must have the advantage of learning what that will is—and the only way to learn is to give the people enough information to stimulate that will and make it apparent.

You get the horrifying feeling, as Hanley finds himself in hot water with his superiors, that they might never have told the story. We have a new slaughter to consider, and the sooner the people know the ghastly score the sooner can justice move.

Not Enough Pennies

Against all copybook maxims, the slogan now is: "Don't save your pennies."

With a copper shortage on, and the mint hard put to keep up with the current booming demand for the coins, Uncle Sam is asking hoarders to get out their cookie jar and piggy bank collections. Not that a spending spree is in order. It is even thriftier, says the Treasury Department, to save in larger amounts and invest in interest-paying U. S. bonds.

By legislation passed in 1864 U. S. pennies must contain 95 per cent copper, plus a five per cent mixture of tin and zinc, says the National Geographic Society.

At present it is estimated there are 18,367,792,533 pennies outstanding, which by no means indicates an equivalent number in actual circulation. Many are held by collectors and savers, and large numbers are concentrated in vending-machine and other big-scale operations.

Since the ratio of tin and zinc is not specified, the penny's tin content was reduced to a minimum soon after the United States entered World War II. An emergency issue of zinc-coated steel cents was struck in 1943, their composition determined by the necessity for conserving precious copper and other strategic metals.

So unpopular were the gray coins, however, that this minting was discontinued after that year, and many have been retired when turned in. Mutilated against further use as money, they have gone into scrap to make such things as rails, wire, and structural steel. Instead of steel, the mint was authorized to use expended brass shell cases as the raw material for one-cent pieces.

The first coin authorized by the U. S. Congress was a cent bearing the date 1787. A big pure-copper piece, it is known as the Fugio, or Franklin cent because Benjamin Franklin is believed to have inspired its motto, "Mind your business."

Following the establishment of the official U. S. Mint in 1792, came the all-copper "Liberty" cents, turned out with numerous die variations. It bears the head of a woman and a liberty cap on the front; a chain or wreath on the reverse. These, too, were big coins.

It was not until 1857 that the now familiar small pennies were minted. The first ones were of Flying Eagle design and were retained only until 1858. Indian Head cents were issued from 1859 to 1909.

Before Congress established the present content of cents, Flying Eagle and Indian Head coins were made of 88 per cent copper and 12 per cent nickel. The resulting "white penny," paled by the nickel ingredient, has been of special interest to collectors.

The Treasury's latest and current cent the Lincoln Head, was first struck in 1909. Pennies of that year, bearing the initial S (for the San Francisco Mint), and V.D.B. (for the initials of the designer, Victor D. Brenner) have the highest book value because of their relative scarcity. This scarcity came about when the designer's initials were removed soon after minting was started.

Perhaps if copper and other metals remain in critical supply, paper pennies may be printed, or 1-cent U. S. postage stamps, sans glue, may be substituted for the lowly copper.

Atomic Superiority

A new test series of atomic explosions at Frenchman's Flat in Nevada is scheduled to start momentarily. The recent series, which ended with what appeared to be the largest explosion of the five, described as the setting off of a "new, compact atomic bomb," added still more to the considerable knowledge of atomic weapons which has been slowly amassed by experts.

Nuclear psysicists working on atomic weapons learn something every time they arrange an atomic test, regardless of whether the results are as expected. It's also obvious that military experts are enlightened when they see the effects of an actual blast under controlled conditions.

But laymen, too, can draw conclusions from such a series—even though they do not have access to detailed data.

Thus the latest Nevada experiments were an impressive demonstration of the progress American scientists have made in the field of atomic energy. The five explosions ranged in size from the "baby bomb," which was the first set off, all the way to the terrifically powerful "pineapple" that ended the program.

Moreover, it is evident scientists knew rather accurately what to expect of each of these weapons. The United States, then, possesses great technical skill in the manufacture and handling of this new instrument of warfare.

Atomic tactical weapons exist. U. S. technicians know how to use them. They know how to combat them if they are used by the enemy.

Of course there is more to be learned. The object of the next series of tests will be to determine the effects of atomic blasts on weapons, vehicles, planes, foxholes and dugouts.

Making A Comeback?

By the usual criteria the California war veteran was dead. Melvin Hewitt had been hurt in an accident. When a doctor started massaging his heart it had not been beating for 15 minutes. It began beating again. That was more than a month ago, and now he is coming out of his heavy coma. He can talk a little.

Doctors watching him will make no predictions as to his bodily much less his mental recovery. They do not wish to underestimate the possible damage to the brain caused by its being deprived of circulating blood.

What is death? Webster defines it as "the cessation of all vital functions without capability of resuscitation." By that definition, which seems reasonable, Hewitt still lived at the end of that deathly quarter of an hour. In future cases such as his the verdict of death must be held in abeyance for at least that length of time, whether or not a doctor is available to operate.

In the Middle Ages an event such as this one might have precipitated some very heated arguments among theologians. At precisely what moment did the soul take flight from the body, if it did. And if it did could it come back into the body again?

Metaphysics will not have much part in the current and interesting case of Mr. Hewitt. Webster's definition should take care of the question: Was he dead? The answer "no" seems the only one possible. But not so easy to answer might be this question: Should the attempt to revive him have been made?

Only if he recovers mentally as well as physically will there be agreement on that. Otherwise there will be those to say he had better been left as dead. But since the chance of preserving life under such circumstances is very slight anyway, who would wish to stay the surgeon's hand?

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

A Desert Fungus

One of our readers asked what is the technical name of the new disease, valley fever. It is coccidioidomycosis (kok-sjd-e-oi-do-mi-ko-sis). The malady is not new; it was described more than 60 years ago but received little publicity until about a decade ago. The disorder is prevalent in the desert areas of the southwest and is caused by a fungus (occidiodes immitis). This organism lies dormant in the soil and becomes active only when inhaled in dust by the native or traveler.

In World War II thousands of cases developed in our desert training camps. The disease was alarming to the newcomer but old stuff to the regular inhabitants, who knew that most victims recovered completely.

The condition is suspected if a chest cold develops on returning home from Arizona or southern California. The period of exposure need not be long, as coccidioidomycosis has been noted in travelers who gave the desert little more than a passing glance. At any rate, 10 days usually elapse between exposure and the occurrence of symptoms. The illness resembles a cold with chest pains, generalized aching, fever, and a scratchy throat. Weakness, loss of appetite, night sweats, and backache are common. The throat may be red but beyond that not much can be detected by physical examination. Chest X-rays, however, reveal fuzzy shadows similar to those of bronchopneumonia or tuberculosis. It is here that the physician must think of the disease if he is to make the diagnosis.

Help is required from the laboratory for confirmation. A special skin test becomes positive by the end of the first week and blood tests by the end of the second week. Meanwhile, most victims are beginning to recover but in one-fifth of them red nodules form in the skin, which has given the ailment its other popular name, valley bumps. These lesions usually persist for one to four weeks. Thereafter, recovery generally is rapid.

X-rays show that the lungs are clear altho some encounter fluid in the chest which takes a longer time to absorb. Positive skin tests remain for months or years as telltale evidence of the disease. It was the positive reaction to this test and others that convinced the medical profession that a high percentage of natives of desert areas in the United States had been victims of the disease at some time. Until then, physicians had recognized only the more serious cases and were under the impression that fatalities were common. Laboratory tests demonstrated that such instances were the exceptions. For every severe case there were a thousand who suffered no more than the inconveniences of a cold. There is no special treatment except to alleviate symptoms as they appear.

TOMORROW: Amebae harbored by 10 per cent of the population.

ITCHING IN DIABETES

H. N. writes: Is itching of the skin a common symptom in diabetes?

REPLY

Yes, but itching tends to disappear after the disease is brought under control.

TELEVISION SEATING

L. P. writes: How far away should a person sit from the television set?

REPLY

For most sets, 10 feet is ample. When the screen is less than 12 inches, the distance can be computed by multiplying the width of the screen by 10.

COLD MOIST HANDS

K. S. writes: What causes clammy hands?

REPLY

A circulatory disturbance in which the skin is cold yet prespiration is profuse. In most instances, the condition is of nervous origin.

HOW OLD ARE YOU?

Mrs. H. writes: What is meant by physiological age?

REPLY

A person may be older or younger than his age, depending upon the state of his tissues. This is known as the physiological age and in former years was expressed in the term "you are as old as your arteries." Recently a group of scientists headed by Dr. Irwin M. Murray of Nova Scotia worked out a new method of determining how old or young a person of 60 is. The tests included visual and hearing acuity, the blood pressure, and the hand grip. The experiment was conducted on a group of 38 business and professional men between the ages of 21 and 84.

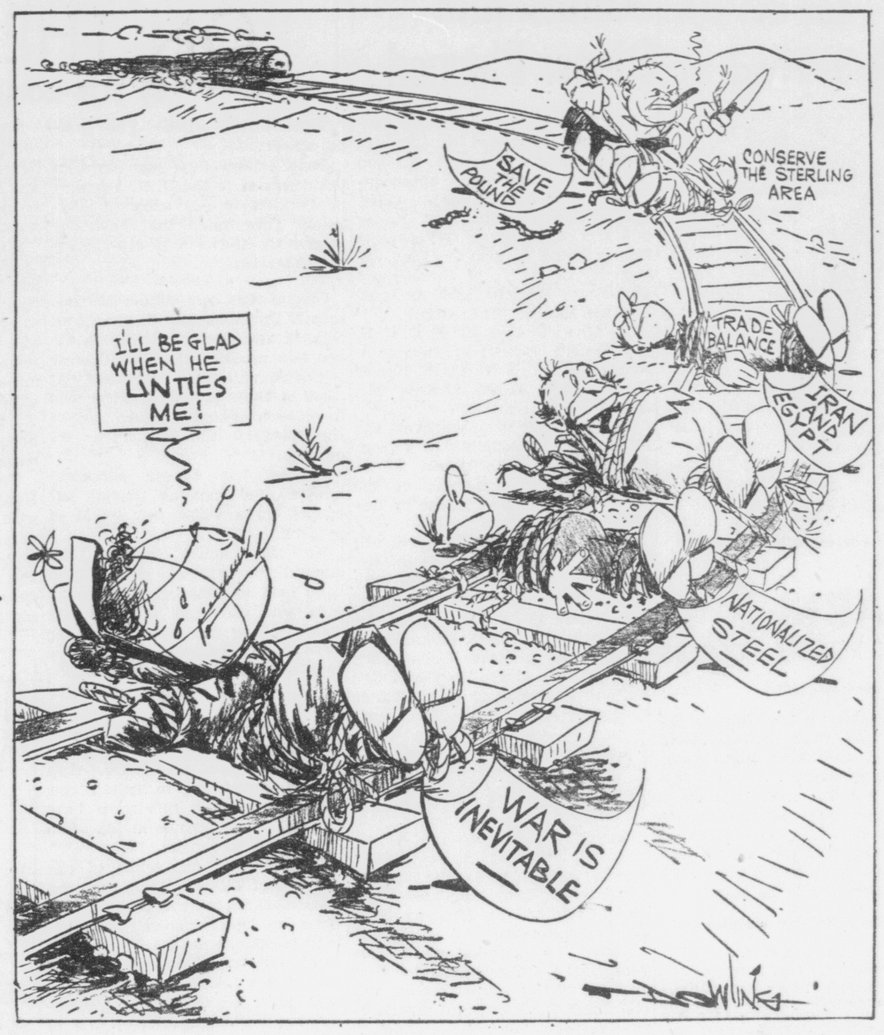

RHEUMATIC FEVER IN ADULTS

K. L. writes: If a man develops rheumatic fever does this mean that he must have had an attack as a child?

REPLY

No. Altho children are more susceptible, the disease may develop at any stage. I saw a 68 year old woman who was having her first attack. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on rheumatic fever

Companies Getting War Contracts Have Spotty Records; Harvey's Record Is Far Better Than Others; Anaconda Wire And Cable Twice Convicted

WASHINGTON—The job of finding a spotless company to produce aluminum for lagging defense production is much like that of Diogenes looking for an honest man.

Below are printed the war records of the three chief companies considered by the National Production Authority for aid in setting up a new aluminum plant. Significantly no agency of the government bothered to look up these records, but left it to the press. Today the FBI is required to spend weeks, sometimes months, checking on the loyalty of a prospective government employe; while there is absolutely no system for checking on the records of companies getting lush war contracts.

Furthermore, Secretary of the Navy Dan Kimball has flatly refused to give the record on the Harvey Machine Company to his cabinet colleague, the Secretary of the Interior, or to a House investigating committee. (Kimball and the Harveys are Californians, with Lawrence Harvey high in Democratic political councils.)

In addition the Defense Mobilization Administration is barred by Congress from building plants of its own if it cannot find a company qualified to build one. This ban, urged by GOP Senators Mundt of South Dakota and Taft of Ohio has seriously impeded defense mobilization.

Meanwhile, the Navy records, which this columnist has seen, show that the Harvey Machine Company was investigated by Naval Intelligence during the war for making off-sized gauges which presumably would help to pass off-sized shells past naval inspectors without the inspectors realizing the shells did not fit specifications.

A naval report, dated Jan. 27, 1944, signed by Capt. L. D. Webb, and recommending against the use of Harvey on another Navy contract, quotes Naval Intelligence, in part, as follows:

Naval Report

"'A check of gauges at the Long Beach plant of subject, disclosed that one of the gauges being used for Navy inspection was defective. Investigation disclosed that approximately 150 defective gauges manufactured by subject were delivered to the Long Beach plant for use in company and Navy inspection. The defect in these gauges was such as would enable subject to attain the acceptance of faulty projectiles by the Navy. Investigation discloses that Herbert Harvey, plant manager, purposely devised a gear-ratio to be used on the Navy-owned thread-grinding machine used to manufacture the gauges. The defect in the gauges caused by use of the substandard gear-ratio was not discernible without thorough examination. Admiral Joseph R. Defrees... requested that steps be taken to cause the institution of criminal proceedings, if a criminal statute has been violated.'

"Dated 22 May 1943, the cognizant War Frauds Division prosecutor of the Department of Justice, in writing to say that 'inherent weaknesses of the case' (i.e. inability to prove to a jury the Navy Department was seriously injured by subject's actions) would make it extremely difficult to secure a conviction, added:

"'This does not mean, however, that we have closed our files on this matter, and I have asked one of our attorneys to prepare a memorandum of law applicable to the facts set forth in the investigative reports.'"

Captain Webb, when queried by this column, stated that although he had then recommended against further use of the Harvey Machine Company, he now felt that they had the initiative necessary for the production of aluminum. He also admitted that he had received a phone call direct from Secretary of the Navy Kimball regarding the Harveys.

Investigation by this columnist leads to similar conclusions—namely, that the Harveys have the drive and initiative necessary for production, and that their record, while far from spotless, is far, far better than others under consideration.

Two Wrongs Equal One Right

After the Harvey record was published, NPA proceeded to award the aluminum contract in Montana to both Harvey and Anaconda Copper, apparently on the theory that two wrongs make a right. For Anaconda Wire and Copper had a far worse war record than Harvey.

Furthermore, Olin Industries, also under consideration for the aluminum contract, likewise had a worse record than Harvey.

ANACONDA RECORD—Anaconda Wire and Cable, one of the largest Anaconda subsidiaries, was twice convicted for war frauds and sabotage in selling faulty wire to the Army, Navy and Air Force.

Alex Campbell, U. S. attorney who prosecuted Anaconda at Fort Wayne, Ind., states that Anaconda's inspectors had pretended to test wire and passed it on to Army and Navy inspectors with an O. K. tag on it—though actually it was not inspected.

Part of the wire was used for artillery communications in the field; part was degaussing wire to protect warships from submarine attack. Fortunately, the wire was caught before it got into combat.

At Fort Wayne, the company and five of its staff did not contest the criminal charges and received $31,000 in fines plus suspended jail sentences. One of those convicted was Thor Johnson, Anaconda Wire and Cable representative for the entire state of Indiana.

The fact that a similar pattern of fraud and concealment was followed in other Anaconda Wire and Cable factories, according to Justice Department officials, showed that the fraud must have been directed from up above. Anaconda Wire and Cable was also convicted at Pawtucket, R. I., and four individuals given one to two years. Another fraud charge at Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y., was dropped after Anaconda paid the government a total of $1,626,000 as a settlement for all its fraud damage.

Remarked Senator Bone of Washington: "The men who did this dreadful thing would be lined up before a firing-squad if they were in Germany or Russia."

But in the United States, the Truman administration proposes giving Anaconda a new contract.

Value Of Patience

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Nov. 18—A friend of the Babson Institute recently presented it a beautiful indoor heated swimming pool costing $235,000. When he was thanked he replied: "Don't thank me. Thank those who taught me patience. This gift of $235,000 cost me nothing."

No Fairy Story!

The explanation of the above is that many years ago he bought stock around $2.50 a share in the American Investment Securities Company which controlled the Columbian National Life Insurance Company of Boston. For years, the stock didn't act well, and no profit was in sight, but all at once the American Investment Securities Company was liquidated.

For each 100 shares of this A.I.S. stock costing $2.50 a share, he received Columbian Life Insurance stock which today is worth $3,600. In addition, he received other securities which more than repaid his original investment. Hence, his insurance company stock, used to pay for the swimming pool, cost him absolutely nothing. But this took 24 years and required great patience.

Texas And Pacific Land

When I was ill many years ago with tuberculosis, I was sent to New Mexico. With time holding heavily, I became interested in the stocks of two companies. These were the New Mexico and Arizona Land Company, and the Texas and Pacific Land Trust. I bought the former in 1916 at $1.75 a share and finally became a director of the company. This stock recently sold for 35 times what I paid for it.

I bought Texas and Pacific Land Trust another time when I was sick at $5.25 a share and urged others to buy it likewise, telling them that some day it would sell for $1,000 a share. They laughed at me, but it recently sold at $150 a share, or at 30 times cost. Holding these stocks many years required tremendous patience. Few persons have such patience. I believe that there are now similar opportunities for those who have the patience to hold them for 20 years.

Bargains Near Home

Thirty years ago, I bought land in Wellesley for $300 an acre, which is now selling for $10,000 an acre. When I bought this, I urged my readers to buy suburban acreage adjacent to their communities. These opportunities likewise exist today. In fact, last week I bought for less than $300 an acre, over 300 acres of high land within two minutes of the Wellesley Hills post office. Some day my children will get $5,000 an acre for this land, but this will require patience. We live in a marvelous country; it is growing at a rapid rate; its people are becoming the healthiest, the most intelligent, and are making the greatest scientific discoveries. If we will grow spiritually as we are growing materially, and have patience, nothing can stop us.

I am especially anxious that the banks holding trust funds insist upon flexible trust agreements so as to take advantage of this great growth ahead. This should enable banks handling the pension funds—at the request of the employes' committees—to purchase stocks in American industry—not mere government bonds—which stocks will pay both a fair rate of interest and with patience some day become very valuable. I know no method to help readers to get rich quickly. One must take time to create a fortune as to mature a baby into a 21-year-old boy. Everything worth while takes time and patience, especially investing money successfully. Incidentally, let me add that when people ask my grandchildren about my business and what I sell, they reply: "Grandpa sells patience."

What About Jobs?

Finally let me say a closing word to graduates of colleges and high schools. I beg of you to be patient for promotions. Don't let anyone beat you in waiting. Forget salary, but take the job for which you are best fitted and in which you can render the most service for mankind, and have patience.

Financial independence comes from having a praying life-partner and good children, who will help you save a little money each month for insurance, for a home, and certain growth stocks. But you must have patience. Being in too much of a hurry will prevent you from making large profits;—yes, being in a hurry will be responsible for most of your losse

Matter Of Fact

Declaration Of Bankruptcy

WASHINGTON

After a remarkable display of feebleness and folly, the State Department has apparently decided to enter a declaration of bankruptcy for its Middle Eastern policy. According to report, Assistant Secretary of State George McGhee, who has been presiding over this vital branch of our affairs, is about to be transferred to the comparative safety of our Embassy to Turkey.

The event is comparable, or at any rate one hopes it is comparable, to the declaration of bankruptcy entered for the old Far Eastern policy in 1949. At that time, W. Walton Butterworth was shipped off to the Embassy in Stockholm, and the able and hardheaded Dean Rusk replaced him at the head of the State Department's Far Eastern division. If a comparable improvement can be made in our Middle Eastern leadership, it is barely conceivable that a full scale Middle Eastern disaster can still be avoided.

This reporter's partner is now in the Middle East, assessing the situation there on the spot. It will not be competitive with his work, however, to note certain repeating errors which marked the handling of the Far Eastern crisis, and have now cropped up anew in the crisis in the Middle East.

Interests Became Obscure

1. The specialist groupings in the State Department, like the Middle Eastern and Far Eastern divisions, until recently formed separate careers within the larger career of the Foreign Service. Thus the specialists tended, as it were, to take out honorary citizenships in the regions of their specialties. Hard and vital American interests became obscure to them. They grew indignant, as Chinese might be indignant, about the corruption of the Chiang Kai-shek regime; or they worried about Iranian public opinion as an Iranian politician might worry.

In the Middle Eastern division, as managed by McGhee, this tendency expressed itself in a strange hankering to enter a sort of Middle Eastern popularity contest. And thus when the Iranian oil crisis demanded hard and disagreeable American action to safeguard American and Western strategic, economic and political interests, our interests were unhappily subordinated to this will-o-the-wisp of popularity.

2. In the Middle East, as in the Far East, the rule was never recognized that inaction can be vastly more dangerous than action. Nothing was done while China subsided into communism, because any effort to prevent this catastrophe inevitably entailed grave risks. Nothing effective was done while the Iranian crisis went from bad to worse, because there was nothing to do that was easy and sure of results. But in both cases, while the immediate risks of effort and action were safely avoided, the inevitable and infinitely greater price of inaction had to be paid in the end.

Result Of Flabby Policy

Just as the present grim Far Eastern situation was the sure and mathematically predictable result of flabby policy in China, so the present hideous situation in Egypt was the certain outcome of a flabby policy in Iran. In both cases, the risks that must now be run are immeasurably greater than the risks that would have been entailed by forehanded, preventive action. In both cases, the chances of saving something from the ruins now are much less than were the chances when the trouble started.

3. By the same token, judgments of Far and Middle Eastern affairs of the future were consistently warped by Micawberism. It was desired to avoid disagreeable and dangerous decision. Therefore it was easier to predict, as Butterworth predicted, that it would be five decades before the Chinese Communists could organize China and begin to make their force felt beyond their frontiers. And it was easier to assert, as McGhee successively asserted, that the Iranian oil problem could be arranged with the powerless Prime Minister Ala; that a rational solution could be worked out with the irrational Prime Minister Mossadegh; that W. Averell Harriman would fix everything (which came nearest to begin correct); and finally that a deal could be made with Mossadegh in the soothing climate of Washington. Being founded on wishfulness, all these judgments were inevitably wrong.

4. In both cases, finally, great efforts have been made to avoid responsibility for the bad outcome, by loudly pointing to the follies of Chiang Kai-shek and the mistakes of the British. But in fact wise American action could have prevented those follies and corrected those mistakes. And since American interests have suffered, the blame is here. Indeed it is contemptible for the greatest power in the world to try to place the blames elsewhere.

The wisdom to understand American interests; the courage to act strongly and in time; the honesty to assess unpleasing situations in their true proportions; the dignity not to blame others for the bad outcome you can avert yourself — these are the characteristics which lacked in our Far Eastern policy, which have been lacking in our Middle Eastern policy. They are also the essential characteristics of all sound national policy-making.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Suppression Of Freedom

It is difficult to convince Americans that their freedoms are in danger. The other night, I listened to Senator John Bricker of Ohio explaining to an audience of newspapermen the dangers to them and their country of the so-called Covenant on Human Rights which the United Nations, including some shameless Americans, are trying to put over on us. I am sure that these men did not realize the importance or the seriousness of the senator's speech. Unfortunately, we possess so great a wealth of liberty that we often disregard our treasures.

Compare, for example, Amendment 1 to the Constitution of the United States with Article 14, Paragraph 3, of the draft Covenant on Human Rights!

The First Amendment of the American Constitution reads:

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances."

That amendment simply says, with regard to the press, that Congress shall make no laws abridging its freedom. There are no ifs, no whereases, no buts. Article 14, Paragraph 3, of the United Nations Covenant is more involved, more wordy, because it seeks to suppress freedom of the press. Read it:

"The right to seek, receive and impart information and ideas carries with it special duties and responsibilities and may therefore be subject to certain penalties, liabilities, and restrictions, but these shall be such only as are provided by law and are necessary for the protection of national security, public order, safety, health or morals, or of the rights, freedoms or reputations of others."

Under this provision, newspapers, magazines, news-gathering agencies, wire-services and that part of radio which supplies news or comment would be limited to exactly what the government of a country wanted its people to be told. The competition for news and the contentiousness over views would disappear and in their place would stand only the propaganda of officialdom — the partisanship and bias of those in power, protecting their vested interest in the status quo. There is no freedom in that.

Of this provision the State Department once said that it was "generally satisfactory from the point of view of the United States"—a statement which is not and cannot be true. Actually the people of the United States have not been consulted concerning it and most of us hardly know what is being done about it. The Covenant was conceived in secrecy and proclaimed only to the initiated. It is so long and confused a document that few bother to read it.

Senator Bricker said before the Silurians in New York:

"The most dangerous feature of Article 14 of the draft Covenant is the authority to impose penalties and restrictions on the press to ensure 'national security.' Because modern war is total war, almost every activity can be linked with some facet of 'national security.' For that reason the term 'national security' could be used to justify almost any restriction on the press which the President and the Congress might choose to impose . . ."

The real danger is that it is not Congress that is legislating for the United States in this respect. It is a foreign, an alien body, the United Nations, most of whose members have never known freedom in their own countries—certainly not freedom of the press. Most of them abhor freedom as dangerous to those who control their people either in the slavery of sovietism or in the tight grip of feudalism. Such men and women are legislating for us.

And when we accept their legislative decisions in the form of a treaty, our courts hold that a treaty, once signed by the President and ratified by the Senate in accordance with the Constitution, is the law of the land.

Legislation by treaty can reduce to ashes the freedoms which the Constitution guarantees.

Senator Bricker said:

". . . The words 'national security, public order, safety' and 'health or morals' are flexible enough to satisfy any dictator who wants to control the press of his country. Dr. Goebbels's position as editor-in-chief of the German press met the requirement of 'national security.' A dictator is the government. A dictator's safety, security, health, and reputation are all jeopardized by an independent press. Why give these loathsome tyrants legal sanction for operating, regulating or intimidating the press?"

Why, indeed?

Not Enough Pennies

Against all copybook maxims, the slogan now is: "Don't save your pennies."

With a copper shortage on, and the mint hard put to keep up with the current booming demand for the coins, Uncle Sam is asking hoarders to get out their cookie jar and piggy bank collections. Not that a spending spree is in order. It is even thriftier, says the Treasury Department, to save in larger amounts and invest in interest-paying U. S. bonds.

By legislation passed in 1864 U. S. pennies must contain 95 per cent copper, plus a five per cent mixture of tin and zinc, says the National Geographic Society.

At present it is estimated there are 18,367,792,533 pennies outstanding, which by no means indicates an equivalent number in actual circulation. Many are held by collectors and savers, and large numbers are concentrated in vending-machine and other big-scale operations.

Since the ratio of tin and zinc is not specified, the penny's tin content was reduced to a minimum soon after the United States entered World War II. An emergency issue of zinc-coated steel cents was struck in 1943, their composition determined by the necessity for conserving precious copper and other strategic metals.

So unpopular were the gray coins, however, that this minting was discontinued after that year, and many have been retired when turned in. Mutilated against further use as money, they have gone into scrap to make such things as rails, wire, and structural steel. Instead of steel, the mint was authorized to use expended brass shell cases as the raw material for one-cent pieces.

The first coin authorized by the U. S. Congress was a cent bearing the date 1787. A big pure-copper piece, it is known as the Fugio, or Franklin cent because Benjamin Franklin is believed to have inspired its motto, "Mind your business."

Following the establishment of the official U. S. Mint in 1792, came the all-copper "Liberty" cents, turned out with numerous die variations. It bears the head of a woman and a liberty cap on the front; a chain or wreath on the reverse. These, too, were big coins.

It was not until 1857 that the now familiar small pennies were minted. The first ones were of Flying Eagle design and were retained only until 1858. Indian Head cents were issued from 1859 to 1909.

Before Congress established the present content of cents, Flying Eagle and Indian Head coins were made of 88 per cent copper and 12 per cent nickel. The resulting "white penny," paled by the nickel ingredient, has been of special interest to collectors.

The Treasury's latest and current cent the Lincoln Head, was first struck in 1909. Pennies of that year, bearing the initial S (for the San Francisco Mint), and V.D.B. (for the initials of the designer, Victor D. Brenner) have the highest book value because of their relative scarcity. This scarcity came about when the designer's initials were removed soon after minting was started.

Perhaps if copper and other metals remain in critical supply, paper pennies may be printed, or 1-cent U. S. postage stamps, sans glue, may be substituted for the lowly copper.

Atomic Superiority

A new test series of atomic explosions at Frenchman's Flat in Nevada is scheduled to start momentarily. The recent series, which ended with what appeared to be the largest explosion of the five, described as the setting off of a "new, compact atomic bomb," added still more to the considerable knowledge of atomic weapons which has been slowly amassed by experts.

Nuclear psysicists working on atomic weapons learn something every time they arrange an atomic test, regardless of whether the results are as expected. It's also obvious that military experts are enlightened when they see the effects of an actual blast under controlled conditions.

But laymen, too, can draw conclusions from such a series—even though they do not have access to detailed data.

Thus the latest Nevada experiments were an impressive demonstration of the progress American scientists have made in the field of atomic energy. The five explosions ranged in size from the "baby bomb," which was the first set off, all the way to the terrifically powerful "pineapple" that ended the program.

Moreover, it is evident scientists knew rather accurately what to expect of each of these weapons. The United States, then, possesses great technical skill in the manufacture and handling of this new instrument of warfare.

Atomic tactical weapons exist. U. S. technicians know how to use them. They know how to combat them if they are used by the enemy.

Of course there is more to be learned. The object of the next series of tests will be to determine the effects of atomic blasts on weapons, vehicles, planes, foxholes and dugouts.

Making A Comeback?

By the usual criteria the California war veteran was dead. Melvin Hewitt had been hurt in an accident. When a doctor started massaging his heart it had not been beating for 15 minutes. It began beating again. That was more than a month ago, and now he is coming out of his heavy coma. He can talk a little.

Doctors watching him will make no predictions as to his bodily much less his mental recovery. They do not wish to underestimate the possible damage to the brain caused by its being deprived of circulating blood.

What is death? Webster defines it as "the cessation of all vital functions without capability of resuscitation." By that definition, which seems reasonable, Hewitt still lived at the end of that deathly quarter of an hour. In future cases such as his the verdict of death must be held in abeyance for at least that length of time, whether or not a doctor is available to operate.

In the Middle Ages an event such as this one might have precipitated some very heated arguments among theologians. At precisely what moment did the soul take flight from the body, if it did. And if it did could it come back into the body again?

Metaphysics will not have much part in the current and interesting case of Mr. Hewitt. Webster's definition should take care of the question: Was he dead? The answer "no" seems the only one possible. But not so easy to answer might be this question: Should the attempt to revive him have been made?

Only if he recovers mentally as well as physically will there be agreement on that. Otherwise there will be those to say he had better been left as dead. But since the chance of preserving life under such circumstances is very slight anyway, who would wish to stay the surgeon's hand?

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

A Desert Fungus

One of our readers asked what is the technical name of the new disease, valley fever. It is coccidioidomycosis (kok-sid-e-oi-do-mi-ko-sis). The malady is not new; it was described more than 60 years ago but received little publicity until about a decade ago. The disorder is prevalent in the desert areas of the southwest and is caused by a fungus (occidiodes immitis). This organism lies dormant in the soil and becomes active only when inhaled in dust by the native or traveler.

In World War II thousands of cases developed in our desert training camps. The disease was alarming to the newcomer but old stuff to the regular inhabitants, who knew that most victims recovered completely.

The condition is suspected if a chest cold develops on returning home from Arizona or southern California. The period of exposure need not be long, as coccidioidomycosis has been noted in travelers who gave the desert little more than a passing glance. At any rate, 10 days usually elapse between exposure and the occurrence of symptoms. The illness resembles a cold with chest pains, generalized aching, fever, and a scratchy throat. Weakness, loss of appetite, night sweats, and backache are common. The throat may be red but beyond that not much can be detected by physical examination. Chest X-rays, however, reveal fuzzy shadows similar to those of bronchopneumonia or tuberculosis. It is here that the physician must think of the disease if he is to make the diagnosis.

Help is required from the laboratory for confirmation. A special skin test becomes positive by the end of the first week and blood tests by the end of the second week. Meanwhile, most victims are beginning to recover but in one-fifth of them red nodules form in the skin, which has given the ailment its other popular name, valley bumps. These lesions usually persist for one to four weeks. Thereafter, recovery generally is rapid.

X-rays show that the lungs are clear altho some encounter fluid in the chest which takes a longer time to absorb. Positive skin tests remain for months or years as telltale evidence of the disease. It was the positive reaction to this test and others that convinced the medical profession that a high percentage of natives of desert areas in the United States had been victims of the disease at some time. Until then, physicians had recognized only the more serious cases and were under the impression that fatalities were common. Laboratory tests demonstrated that such instances were the exceptions. For every severe case there were a thousand who suffered no more than the inconveniences of a cold. There is no special treatment except to alleviate symptoms as they appear.

TOMORROW: Amebae harbored by 10 per cent of the population.

ITCHING IN DIABETES

H. N. writes: Is itching of the skin a common symptom in diabetes?

REPLY

Yes, but itching tends to disappear after the disease is brought under control.

TELEVISION SEATING

L. P. writes: How far away should a person sit from the television set?

REPLY

For most sets, 10 feet is ample. When the screen is less than 12 inches, the distance can be computed by multiplying the width of the screen by 10.

COLD MOIST HANDS

K. S. writes: What causes clammy hands?

REPLY

A circulatory disturbance in which the skin is cold yet prespiration is profuse. In most instances, the condition is of nervous origin.

HOW OLD ARE YOU?

Mrs. H. writes: What is meant by physiological age?

REPLY

A person may be older or younger than his age, depending upon the state of his tissues. This is known as the physiological age and in former years was expressed in the term "you are as old as your arteries." Recently a group of scientists headed by Dr. Irwin M. Murray of Nova Scotia worked out a new method of determining how old or young a person of 60 is. The tests included visual and hearing acuity, the blood pressure, and the hand grip. The experiment was conducted on a group of 38 business and professional men between the ages of 21 and 84.

RHEUMATIC FEVER IN ADULTS

K. L. writes: If a man develops rheumatic fever does this mean that he must have had an attack as a child?

REPLY

No. Altho children are more susceptible, the disease may develop at any stage. I saw a 68 year old woman who was having her first attack. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on rheumatic fever

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Companies Getting War Contracts Have Spotty Records; Harvey's Record Is Far Better Than Others; Anaconda Wire And Cable Twice Convicted

WASHINGTON—The job of finding a spotless company to produce aluminum for lagging defense production is much like that of Diogenes looking for an honest man.

Below are printed the war records of the three chief companies considered by the National Production Authority for aid in setting up a new aluminum plant. Significantly no agency of the government bothered to look up these records, but left it to the press. Today the FBI is required to spend weeks, sometimes months, checking on the loyalty of a prospective government employe; while there is absolutely no system for checking on the records of companies getting lush war contracts.

Furthermore, Secretary of the Navy Dan Kimball has flatly refused to give the record on the Harvey Machine Company to his cabinet colleague, the Secretary of the Interior, or to a House investigating committee. (Kimball and the Harveys are Californians, with Lawrence Harvey high in Democratic political councils.)

In addition the Defense Mobilization Administration is barred by Congress from building plants of its own if it cannot find a company qualified to build one. This ban, urged by GOP Senators Mundt of South Dakota and Taft of Ohio has seriously impeded defense mobilization.

Meanwhile, the Navy records, which this columnist has seen, show that the Harvey Machine Company was investigated by Naval Intelligence during the war for making off-sized gauges which presumably would help to pass off-sized shells past naval inspectors without the inspectors realizing the shells did not fit specifications.

A naval report, dated Jan. 27, 1944, signed by Capt. L. D. Webb, and recommending against the use of Harvey on another Navy contract, quotes Naval Intelligence, in part, as follows:

Naval Report

"'A check of gauges at the Long Beach plant of subject, disclosed that one of the gauges being used for Navy inspection was defective. Investigation disclosed that approximately 150 defective gauges manufactured by subject were delivered to the Long Beach plant for use in company and Navy inspection. The defect in these gauges was such as would enable subject to attain the acceptance of faulty projectiles by the Navy. Investigation discloses that Herbert Harvey, plant manager, purposely devised a gear-ratio to be used on the Navy-owned thread-grinding machine used to manufacture the gauges. The defect in the gauges caused by use of the substandard gear-ratio was not discernible without thorough examination. Admiral Joseph R. Defrees... requested that steps be taken to cause the institution of criminal proceedings, if a criminal statute has been violated.'

"Dated 22 May 1943, the cognizant War Frauds Division prosecutor of the Department of Justice, in writing to say that 'inherent weaknesses of the case' (i.e. inability to prove to a jury the Navy Department was seriously injured by subject's actions) would make it extremely difficult to secure a conviction, added:

"'This does not mean, however, that we have closed our files on this matter, and I have asked one of our attorneys to prepare a memorandum of law applicable to the facts set forth in the investigative reports.'"

Captain Webb, when queried by this column, stated that although he had then recommended against further use of the Harvey Machine Company, he now felt that they had the initiative necessary for the production of aluminum. He also admitted that he had received a phone call direct from Secretary of the Navy Kimball regarding the Harveys.

Investigation by this columnist leads to similar conclusions—namely, that the Harveys have the drive and initiative necessary for production, and that their record, while far from spotless, is far, far better than others under consideration.

Two Wrongs Equal One Right

After the Harvey record was published, NPA proceeded to award the aluminum contract in Montana to both Harvey and Anaconda Copper, apparently on the theory that two wrongs make a right. For Anaconda Wire and Copper had a far worse war record than Harvey.

Furthermore, Olin Industries, also under consideration for the aluminum contract, likewise had a worse record than Harvey.

ANACONDA RECORD—Anaconda Wire and Cable, one of the largest Anaconda subsidiaries, was twice convicted for war frauds and sabotage in selling faulty wire to the Army, Navy and Air Force.

Alex Campbell, U. S. attorney who prosecuted Anaconda at Fort Wayne, Ind., states that Anaconda's inspectors had pretended to test wire and passed it on to Army and Navy inspectors with an O. K. tag on it—though actually it was not inspected.

Part of the wire was used for artillery communications in the field; part was degaussing wire to protect warships from submarine attack. Fortunately, the wire was caught before it got into combat.

At Fort Wayne, the company and five of its staff did not contest the criminal charges and received $31,000 in fines plus suspended jail sentences. One of those convicted was Thor Johnson, Anaconda Wire and Cable representative for the entire state of Indiana.

The fact that a similar pattern of fraud and concealment was followed in other Anaconda Wire and Cable factories, according to Justice Department officials, showed that the fraud must have been directed from up above. Anaconda Wire and Cable was also convicted at Pawtucket, R. I., and four individuals given one to two years. Another fraud charge at Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y., was dropped after Anaconda paid the government a total of $1,626,000 as a settlement for all its fraud damage.

Remarked Senator Bone of Washington: "The men who did this dreadful thing would be lined up before a firing-squad if they were in Germany or Russia."

But in the United States, the Truman administration proposes giving Anaconda a new contract.

Value Of Patience

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Nov. 18—A friend of the Babson Institute recently presented it a beautiful indoor heated swimming pool costing $235,000. When he was thanked he replied: "Don't thank me. Thank those who taught me patience. This gift of $235,000 cost me nothing."

No Fairy Story!

The explanation of the above is that many years ago he bought stock around $2.50 a share in the American Investment Securities Company which controlled the Columbian National Life Insurance Company of Boston. For years, the stock didn't act well, and no profit was in sight, but all at once the American Investment Securities Company was liquidated.

For each 100 shares of this A.I.S. stock costing $2.50 a share, he received Columbian Life Insurance stock which today is worth $3,600. In addition, he received other securities which more than repaid his original investment. Hence, his insurance company stock, used to pay for the swimming pool, cost him absolutely nothing. But this took 24 years and required great patience.

Texas And Pacific Land

When I was ill many years ago with tuberculosis, I was sent to New Mexico. With time holding heavily, I became interested in the stocks of two companies. These were the New Mexico and Arizona Land Company, and the Texas and Pacific Land Trust. I bought the former in 1916 at $1.75 a share and finally became a director of the company. This stock recently sold for 35 times what I paid for it.

I bought Texas and Pacific Land Trust another time when I was sick at $5.25 a share and urged others to buy it likewise, telling them that some day it would sell for $1,000 a share. They laughed at me, but it recently sold at $150 a share, or at 30 times cost. Holding these stocks many years required tremendous patience. Few persons have such patience. I believe that there are now similar opportunities for those who have the patience to hold them for 20 years.

Bargains Near Home

Thirty years ago, I bought land in Wellesley for $300 an acre, which is now selling for $10,000 an acre. When I bought this, I urged my readers to buy suburban acreage adjacent to their communities. These opportunities likewise exist today. In fact, last week I bought for less than $300 an acre, over 300 acres of high land within two minutes of the Wellesley Hills post office. Some day my children will get $5,000 an acre for this land, but this will require patience. We live in a marvelous country; it is growing at a rapid rate; its people are becoming the healthiest, the most intelligent, and are making the greatest scientific discoveries. If we will grow spiritually as we are growing materially, and have patience, nothing can stop us.

I am especially anxious that the banks holding trust funds insist upon flexible trust agreements so as to take advantage of this great growth ahead. This should enable banks handling the pension funds—at the request of the employes' committees—to purchase stocks in American industry—not mere government bonds—which stocks will pay both a fair rate of interest and with patience some day become very valuable. I know no method to help readers to get rich quickly. One must take time to create a fortune as to mature a baby into a 21-year-old boy. Everything worth while takes time and patience, especially investing money successfully. Incidentally, let me add that when people ask my grandchildren about my business and what I sell, they reply: "Grandpa sells patience."

What About Jobs?

Finally let me say a closing word to graduates of colleges and high schools. I beg of you to be patient for promotions. Don't let anyone beat you in waiting. Forget salary, but take the job for which you are best fitted and in which you can render the most service for mankind, and have patience.

Financial independence comes from having a praying life-partner and good children, who will help you save a little money each month for insurance, for a home, and certain growth stocks. But you must have patience. Being in too much of a hurry will prevent you from making large profits;—yes, being in a hurry will be responsible for most of your losse

WASHINGTON

After a remarkable display of feebleness and folly, the State Department has apparently decided to enter a declaration of bankruptcy for its Middle Eastern policy. According to report, Assistant Secretary of State George McGhee, who has been presiding over this vital branch of our affairs, is about to be transferred to the comparative safety of our Embassy to Turkey.

The event is comparable, or at any rate one hopes it is comparable, to the declaration of bankruptcy entered for the old Far Eastern policy in 1949. At that time, W. Walton Butterworth was shipped off to the Embassy in Stockholm, and the able and hardheaded Dean Rusk replaced him at the head of the State Department's Far Eastern division. If a comparable improvement can be made in our Middle Eastern leadership, it is barely conceivable that a full scale Middle Eastern disaster can still be avoided.

This reporter's partner is now in the Middle East, assessing the situation there on the spot. It will not be competitive with his work, however, to note certain repeating errors which marked the handling of the Far Eastern crisis, and have now cropped up anew in the crisis in the Middle East.

Interests Became Obscure

1. The specialist groupings in the State Department, like the Middle Eastern and Far Eastern divisions, until recently formed separate careers within the larger career of the Foreign Service. Thus the specialists tended, as it were, to take out honorary citizenships in the regions of their specialties. Hard and vital American interests became obscure to them. They grew indignant, as Chinese might be indignant, about the corruption of the Chiang Kai-shek regime; or they worried about Iranian public opinion as an Iranian politician might worry.

In the Middle Eastern division, as managed by McGhee, this tendency expressed itself in a strange hankering to enter a sort of Middle Eastern popularity contest. And thus when the Iranian oil crisis demanded hard and disagreeable American action to safeguard American and Western strategic, economic and political interests, our interests were unhappily subordinated to this will-o-the-wisp of popularity.

2. In the Middle East, as in the Far East, the rule was never recognized that inaction can be vastly more dangerous than action. Nothing was done while China subsided into communism, because any effort to prevent this catastrophe inevitably entailed grave risks. Nothing effective was done while the Iranian crisis went from bad to worse, because there was nothing to do that was easy and sure of results. But in both cases, while the immediate risks of effort and action were safely avoided, the inevitable and infinitely greater price of inaction had to be paid in the end.

Result Of Flabby Policy

Just as the present grim Far Eastern situation was the sure and mathematically predictable result of flabby policy in China, so the present hideous situation in Egypt was the certain outcome of a flabby policy in Iran. In both cases, the risks that must now be run are immeasurably greater than the risks that would have been entailed by forehanded, preventive action. In both cases, the chances of saving something from the ruins now are much less than were the chances when the trouble started.

3. By the same token, judgments of Far and Middle Eastern affairs of the future were consistently warped by Micawberism. It was desired to avoid disagreeable and dangerous decision. Therefore it was easier to predict, as Butterworth predicted, that it would be five decades before the Chinese Communists could organize China and begin to make their force felt beyond their frontiers. And it was easier to assert, as McGhee successively asserted, that the Iranian oil problem could be arranged with the powerless Prime Minister Ala; that a rational solution could be worked out with the irrational Prime Minister Mossadegh; that W. Averell Harriman would fix everything (which came nearest to begin correct); and finally that a deal could be made with Mossadegh in the soothing climate of Washington. Being founded on wishfulness, all these judgments were inevitably wrong.

4. In both cases, finally, great efforts have been made to avoid responsibility for the bad outcome, by loudly pointing to the follies of Chiang Kai-shek and the mistakes of the British. But in fact wise American action could have prevented those follies and corrected those mistakes. And since American interests have suffered, the blame is here. Indeed it is contemptible for the greatest power in the world to try to place the blames elsewhere.

The wisdom to understand American interests; the courage to act strongly and in time; the honesty to assess unpleasing situations in their true proportions; the dignity not to blame others for the bad outcome you can avert yourself — these are the characteristics which lacked in our Far Eastern policy, which have been lacking in our Middle Eastern policy. They are also the essential characteristics of all sound national policy-making.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Suppression Of Freedom

It is difficult to convince Americans that their freedoms are in danger. The other night, I listened to Senator John Bricker of Ohio explaining to an audience of newspapermen the dangers to them and their country of the so-called Covenant on Human Rights which the United Nations, including some shameless Americans, are trying to put over on us. I am sure that these men did not realize the importance or the seriousness of the senator's speech. Unfortunately, we possess so great a wealth of liberty that we often disregard our treasures.

Compare, for example, Amendment 1 to the Constitution of the United States with Article 14, Paragraph 3, of the draft Covenant on Human Rights!

The First Amendment of the American Constitution reads:

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances."

That amendment simply says, with regard to the press, that Congress shall make no laws abridging its freedom. There are no ifs, no whereases, no buts. Article 14, Paragraph 3, of the United Nations Covenant is more involved, more wordy, because it seeks to suppress freedom of the press. Read it:

"The right to seek, receive and impart information and ideas carries with it special duties and responsibilities and may therefore be subject to certain penalties, liabilities, and restrictions, but these shall be such only as are provided by law and are necessary for the protection of national security, public order, safety, health or morals, or of the rights, freedoms or reputations of others."

Under this provision, newspapers, magazines, news-gathering agencies, wire-services and that part of radio which supplies news or comment would be limited to exactly what the government of a country wanted its people to be told. The competition for news and the contentiousness over views would disappear and in their place would stand only the propaganda of officialdom — the partisanship and bias of those in power, protecting their vested interest in the status quo. There is no freedom in that.

Of this provision the State Department once said that it was "generally satisfactory from the point of view of the United States"—a statement which is not and cannot be true. Actually the people of the United States have not been consulted concerning it and most of us hardly know what is being done about it. The Covenant was conceived in secrecy and proclaimed only to the initiated. It is so long and confused a document that few bother to read it.

Senator Bricker said before the Silurians in New York:

"The most dangerous feature of Article 14 of the draft Covenant is the authority to impose penalties and restrictions on the press to ensure 'national security.' Because modern war is total war, almost every activity can be linked with some facet of 'national security.' For that reason the term 'national security' could be used to justify almost any restriction on the press which the President and the Congress might choose to impose . . ."

The real danger is that it is not Congress that is legislating for the United States in this respect. It is a foreign, an alien body, the United Nations, most of whose members have never known freedom in their own countries—certainly not freedom of the press. Most of them abhor freedom as dangerous to those who control their people either in the slavery of sovietism or in the tight grip of feudalism. Such men and women are legislating for us.

And when we accept their legislative decisions in the form of a treaty, our courts hold that a treaty, once signed by the President and ratified by the Senate in accordance with the Constitution, is the law of the land.

Legislation by treaty can reduce to ashes the freedoms which the Constitution guarantees.

Senator Bricker said:

" . . . The words 'national security, public order, safety' and 'health or morals' are flexible enough to satisfy any dictator who wants to control the press of his country. Dr. Goebbels's position as editor-in-chief of the German press met the requirement of 'national security.' A dictator is the government. A dictator's safety, security, health, and reputation are all jeopardized by an independent press. Why give these loathsome tyrants legal sanction for operating, regulating or intimidating the press?"

Why, indeed?

Insects Gaining In Fight Against Drugs, Chemicals

CHICAGO (INS) —The world's bugs — from bacteria to houseflies— are winning ground in a primitive but dangerous counterattack against man's drugs and chemicals.

Their weapon is resistance—the ability to develop a kind of immunity to agents which once were lethal —and it is all the more dangerous because scientists do not fully understand the process.

The National Malaria Society was told in Chicago that the common housefly in many sections of the country can wade through once deadly DDT, rub it off, and go on about its filthy business.

Human body lice in Korea—the same species which transmitted typhus in epidemic proportions in Italy during World War II until it was stopped by DDT—are no longer affected by the insecticide.

A species of mosquito that carries horse encephalitis in California has become resistant to DDT and four other insect-killing chemicals. Two other types of mosquito, one in the marshes of Italy and the other in the Southeastern United States are resistant.

And Dr. Justin M. Andrews, the president of the malaria society, added:

The malaria control program is pathetically dependent on DDT. What will happen when anopheles (the mosquito that transmits malaria) develops resistance?"

Strains of the microscope organisms that cause syphilis and gonorrhea have developed resistance to penicillin when the drug was administered in doses too small to be lethal. Fortunately, other antibiotic drugs usually are effective in such cases.

This has not been the case with DDT. Dr. A. D. Hess of the U. S. Public Health Service in Savannah, Ga., said four related chemicals were tried on flies in 1950—and by 1951 the flies were resistant to them, too.

Dr. Leigh E. Chadwick of the U. S. Army Chemical Center in Bethesda, Md., told the malaria specializes that enzymes from the fly's digestive tract apparently alter the chemical composition of DDT to make it harmless—but more research is necessary because scientists never were sure why DDT killed flies in the first place.

Dr. George C. Decker of the Illinois Natural History Survey, said insects which develop this resistance pass it on the their descendants and the immunity grows with each generation. He explained:

"Apparently it takes from one to three years for a chemical to induce resistance in the fly. The first resistance to DDT was noted in Illinois in 1947. By now the resistance may be 100 to 1,000 times normal."

Local GI Recovering From Korean Fever

Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Hull, Sr., 441 Race Street, received a telephone call Thursday night from their son, Cpl. Thomas O. Hull, who is recuperating at the 361st Station Hospital, Japan, from hemorrhagic fever contracted in Korea.

Cpl. Hull advised his parents that he is "up and around in the hospital". The malady has killed a number of United Nations forces fighting Communist troops.

Body Of Local Hero Killed In Korea To Arrive Today

The body of Cpl. Theodore Frank Hausman, 20, USMC, who lost his life in Korea on June 1, less than five months after he went overseas, will arrive today at the home of his mother, Mrs. Lena (DeLuca) Belfoure, 135 Polk Street.

The son of Theodore A. Hausman, Pittsburgh, he would have been 21 years old last July 13.

Cpl. Hausman enlisted in the Marine Corps after graduating from Fort Hill High School in 1949. He served at Parris Island, S. C., and Camp LeJeune, N. C.

Discharged after one year's service, he was employed as an apprentice carman by the B. and O. Railroad prior to his recall to active duty with the local Marine Reserve contingent in July, 1950. He went to Korea in January, 1951.

Surviving include his step-father, Edward Belfoure; maternal grandmother, Mrs. Nellie C. DeLuca, this city, and a number of uncles and aunts including Samuel "Sammy" DeLuca, Cumberland. His mother is co-owner of the Rainbow Restaurant on North Centre Street.

Full military honors at reburial services will be accorded by Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion.

Engineers Urged To Aid Local Projects

The members of the Engineers Club of Cumberland were urged to take a more active part in local projects that concern some phase of engineering, C. L. Herath, chief engineer of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant here, said at a meeting of the club at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

He pointed out that the club contained a large membership of engineers from all branches of the profession.

Herath said they are in a unique position to lend great aid to private and public problems that include some phase of engineering.

This is because of the professional background of the members supplemented by the understanding of local conditions, and would result in a more realistic and beneficial solution to civic problems, Herath concluded.

Court Confused By Twin Sisters

CHICAGO (INS) — The Chicago Auto Safety Court was thrown into confusion, all because of twin sisters.

Judge William V. Daly and arresting officers could not tell the women apart, The women are Lucille Lisiecke and Jean Leagh, who shortened her name .

The sisters entered an automobile Nov. 2, parked on the Oak Park, Ill., side of a street which divides the suburb from Chicago.

Chicago police crossed the street to arrest Lucille (they believed it was Lucille) on a disturbance charge. They seized the other woman after a two-mile auto chase into Chicago.

Policeman Brett Davies was asked by Judge Daly to point out the woman who was supposed to have been "under the influence of liquor." But Davies said:

"I can't tell them apart."

Judge Daly then looked at one of the women and said:

"Jean, I'm going to dismiss the drunken driving charge but I am fining you $21 on other charges."

The woman said she was Lucille not Jean.

Then the other woman admitted she was Jean and paid the fine.

First Rehabilitated Local Man Honored For Service

The first person, a Cumberlander, ever to be rehabilitated by the Maryland Vocational Rehabilitation Division of the State Department of Education, was honored Friday for having completed 21 years of continuous service in one job since he was given employment by the White-Haines Optical Co. in 1930

Carl Van Ausdale, La Vale, was stricken with infantile paralysis while employed by the Kelly Springfield Tire Co. 21 years ago. When all was done that medical care could provide, he was still helpless from the waist down and unable to resume his old employment. It was just at that time that Maryland was embarking on a program of vocational rehabilitation, and the Cumberland man was accepted as the first to undertake the six months rehabilitation routine. After several unsuccessful job applications, Van Ausdale was given employment by Robert R. McCoy, manager of the White-Haines Optical Co. and still head of that concern here. Van Ausdale has kept the same job 21 years.

E. B. Whitten, executive director of the National Rehabilitation Association, Washington, came to Cumberland Friday with Robert C. Thompson, Maryland director, to present to Van Ausdale a complimentary permanent membership in the national association.

In 1930 the Cumberlander was one of five persons rehabilitated in Maryland. Last year there were 1023 persons rehabilitated, 60 of them being from Allegany and Garrett Counties, according to J. Leo Delaney, Frostburg, director of the program in these two counties.

According to Mr. Thompson, Van Ausdale personifies the Vocational Rehabilitation program, and his 21 years of service to the complete satisfaction of his employer is the best kind of argument for the employment of the physically handicapped.

State Group To Hold Session Here Dec. 12

The commission named to suggest a streamlining of Maryland's state government will hold a session in Cumberland on the night of December 12 following a meeting at noon in Frederick.

Members of the commission will be here as part of a tour of the state, explaining its work to legislators, local government officials and anyone else interested.

Simon Sobeloff, Baltimore attorney, who heads the commission, will describe the general work of the commission.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Can a child be cured of nightmares?

Answer: Only by removing the cause, —which as with an—adult is anxiety arising from the fear of being punished for forbidden feelings or desires. In a child's case, these are likely to be feelings of hostility toward his parents (or one of them) or toward another child who is regarded as a rival especially a new baby. He can best be reassured through being helped to feel that there is no real danger of his losing the love and protection of his parents and that his small naughtinesses have not permanently lost him their approval. Telling a child he is "bad" is on way to give him nightmares.

Can schizophrenia be "latent"?

Answer: No, says Dr. Bertram R. Forer of Los Angeles in the Journal of Projective Techniques So-called "latent schizophrenia"—as revealed, for instance, by the Rohrschach Test—"is not schizophrenia." There are people who are overly dependent upon a well-ordered life and the influence and support of others. They behave and feel quite normally as long as they continue in the social situation to which they have always been accustomed. It is only when they are confronted with a confused problem which they have to solve for themselves that they are likely to behave irrationally, or even become "temporarily insane."

Does migraine "run in families"?

Answer: Very often, but this need not mean it is "hereditary." Insofar as it is psychosomatic— and it usually is to some extent—migraine generally is caused by repressed "aggression" which the sufferer takes out on himself, at the same time punishing his (or her) family by being unable to work. But a mother who has an exaggerated notion of how "wicked" it is to be angry or hate anybody is likely to pass on this attitude—and the migraines it is apt to entail—to her children, and especially her daughters. And these naturally think they have "inherited their headaches" from her.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Can a child be cured of nightmares?

Answer: Only by removing the cause, —which as with an—adult is anxiety arising from the fear of being punished for forbidden feelings or desires. In a child's case, these are likely to be feelings of hostility toward his parents (or one of them) or toward another child who is regarded as a rival especially a new baby. He can best be reassured through being helped to feel that there is no real danger of his losing the love and protection of his parents and that his small naughtinesses have not permanently lost him their approval. Telling a child he is "bad" is on way to give him nightmares.

Can schizophrenia be "latent"?

Answer: No, says Dr. Bertram R. Forer of Los Angeles in the Journal of Projective Techniques So-called "latent schizophrenia"—as revealed, for instance, by the Rohrschach Test—"is not schizophrenia." There are people who are overly dependent upon a well-ordered life and the influence and support of others. They behave and feel quite normally as long as they continue in the social situation to which they have always been accustomed. It is only when they are confronted with a confused problem which they have to solve for themselves that they are likely to behave irrationally, or even become "temporarily insane."

Does migraine "run in families"?

Answer: Very often, but this need not mean it is "hereditary." Insofar as it is psychosomatic— and it usually is to some extent—migraine generally is caused by repressed "aggression" which the sufferer takes out on himself, at the same time punishing his (or her) family by being unable to work. But a mother who has an exaggerated notion of how "wicked" it is to be angry or hate anybody is likely to pass on this attitude—and the migraines it is apt to entail—to her children, and especially her daughters. And these naturally think they have "inherited their headaches" from her.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Moral Cowardice

Some instinct tells me that, after the hysteria dies down, "Red Channels," which bears the rather incredible sub-title "The Report of Communist Influence in Radio and Television," will go down in our social history as one of the dizziest phenomena of the postwar period.

John Crosby

Let's look at the record. This small booklet, which lists the names and the supposed Communist-front or leftist affiliations of 151 radio and TV performers, directors, writers and producers, has won the almost universal editorial condemnation of the U. S. press, including such divergent publications as the "New York Herald Tribune," "The New York Times," "Life," "The Washington Post," "The Des Moines Register and Tribune" and the "Green Bay (Wisc.) Press-Gazette."

• — • — •

No sponsor, no advertising agency man and no producer will come to the public defense of "Red Channels" and practically nobody will admit to using it as a blacklist. Its chief editor, Theodore Kirkpatrick (whose official title is secretary-treasurer of American Business Consultants, Inc. which published "Red Channels") is on record as saying, "We've never said the facts in 'Red Channels' were correct or incorrect." Many of the "facts" in the booklet were culled from the Communist "Daily Worker" or other bizarre sources, considering that it is supposed to be violently anti-Communist in nature, and Mr. Kirkpatrick has confessed that no attempt was made to check the allegations.

While no attempt has been made to prove the allegations, a great many of them have been pretty thoroughly disproved and the publishers have been up to their hips in libel suits ($2,000,000 worth). The FBI, of which Mr. Kirkpatrick is a former member and whose name his organization freely uses for exploitation, frowns on this practice and has gone to some pains to point out that Mr. K. is just a private citizen with no more access to FBI files than anyone else.

In a recent three-part article in "Sponsor," a magazine whose heart is unmistakably on the side of free enterprise, which forms its editorial content and pays its bills, the techniques of American Business Consultants Inc. were so thoroughly dismantled that it's hard to see how anyone can take "Red Channels" seriously. "It serves at one and the same time as disturber of the peace, prosecuting attorney, judge, jury and detective agency. That is to say it publishes allegations in 'Red Channels,' then follows them up by urging letter writers to put pressure on sponsors in 'Counterattack,' later holds hearings on the accused in its private offices; and personally solicits sponsors to hire its detective agency 'research service.'"

I could go on and on, but I haven't space. The plain fact is that "Red Channels," which almost nobody in the business approves of trusts, is still in the secret library of all the ad agencies, is still at the elbow of casting directors for TV and radio, and has immeasurably damaged the reputations and careers of the people listed in it.

Why? A very interesting though depressing moral problem it is. If the casting directors were genuinely misguided, if they really thought they were serving the cause of anti-Communism, if they believed that their refusal to hire certain actors and writers kept subversive thoughts or opinions off the air, if they sincerely thought they were accomplishing anything at all, some case could be made out for them. But they don't.

The "Red Channels" blacklist is employed simply as a device to stay out of trouble with everybody, as a matter of—in the most cynical use of the phrase—public relations. An official of General Foods, which was the storm center of the Jean Muir controversy, has admitted that the letters received from people (independent of pressure groups) ran three to one in favor of rehiring Miss Muir. But she wasn't rehired and is currently unemployed. If you don't hire the Miss Muirs, you don't get angry letters from either side. And that, above all, is what the sponsor and the ad agency want.

• — • — •

This is appalling moral cowardice. The livelihoods of a great many people are being destroyed by a cynical disregard for the most elementary standards of fair play, by an absolute absence of any conviction, right or wrong. It's a very foolish course. Every casting director, every producer, every ad agency man who uses "Red Channels" as a blacklist is just as vulneable as those whose name appear in "Red Channels." Some day there might be another discredited unofficial publication like "Red Channels" in which their own names appear and then they'd be out of work too—without trial, without a hearing, without redress.

Saturday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

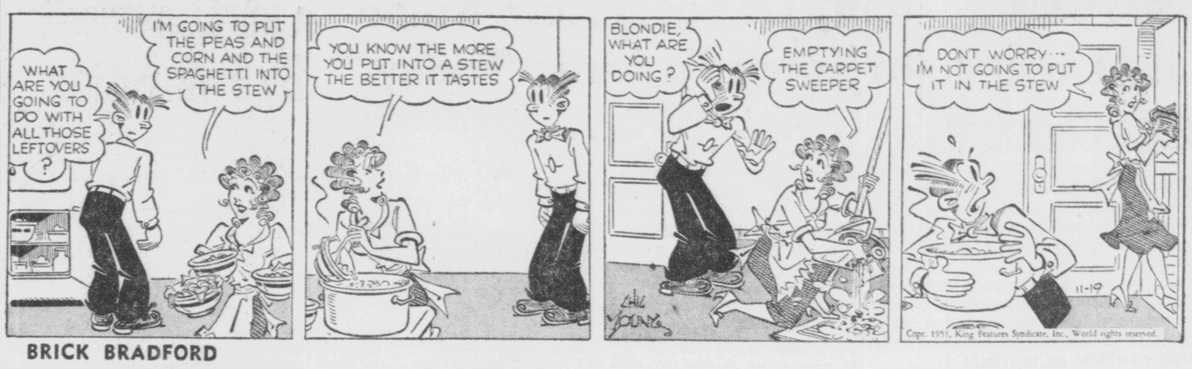

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 18 (INS) — That long expected contract has been handed to Betsy Von Furstenberg with love and kisses by MGM. She'll be at the same studio with Elizabeth Taylor, but Betsy's deal, which is the usual seven year contract with options, calls for her to do "Oh, Perfect Love," a show on Broadway, before she starts emoting at MGM.

The original idea was to give Betsy the Ava Gardner role in the Clark Gable picture, "Sometimes I Love You," but since Clark has definitely refused to do that picture and it has been put on the shelf, that's out for the exciting young countess.

As of today she and Nicky Hilton are happy and he's arriving here next week. Betsy is happy—period!

Saying that Hedy Lamar can't make up her mind these days is the understatement of the year. First, Hedy's going to live in Mexico, then, she's going to stay in Hollywoood, and two columns later—she's Mexico-minded again.

But the topper came a couple of days ago. After turning down "Sword of Venus" and an RKO picture for which she would have earned a neat $190,000, she telephoned RKO from Mexico..

What she wanted to know was—is either offer still open? The answer was a firm "no" because, between you and me, they wonder if they could depend on heady Hedy to show up.

Is it love between Betty Hutton and her dance director, Charles O'Curran? I'm just asking.

O'Curran, who, Betty tells me, is the greatest of all dance directors, did the choreography in her recent picture at Paramount, and he is now directing Leslie Caron's dances in "Glory Alley" at MGM.

Betty left on the Lurline for Honolulu on Tuesday. A day later she was on the wire calling O'Curran from the boat. Two days out of San Francisco she was again on the telephone, and how many times he called her I wouldn't be knowing.

But, at the moment, even though Betty was seeing Norman Krasna secretly, O'Curran, 'tis said, is the top man in her life.

At the time of her separation from Aurie Murphy little Wanda Hendrix was the most heartbroken girl I'd ever seen.

Now she seems to have found great happiness with Robert Arthur, the young actor who played the baby-faced cameraman in "Ace In The Hole." I first saw them together at the Hollywood press photographers ball and it did my heart good to see Wanda so happy.

Audie, on the other hand, seems extremely happy with his new wife and with the prospects of fatherhood.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Marie McDonald is in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital for observation. She's been ailing ever since she lost her baby a few months ago.

The John Hustons, who quarreled and parted in London, will reconcile when John arrives in New York to see the former Ricki Soma.

Poor Peggy Ann Garner, who seems to have been born under an unlucky star, has been very sick since she lost her expected baby. Peggy, who is married to Richard Hayes, young TV singer, is in Canton, Ohio, trying to regain her health.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Masonic Council To Confer Degree

The Rev. Edgar Cordell Powers, 33rd degree, Sovereign Grand Inspector General in Maryland, will be the guest of Cumberland Council of Kadosh A.A.S.R. at the Masonic Temple today when the council will confer the 30th degree on the 41st class, starting at 8 p.m.

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

Never Let A Customer Change His Mind

When I was a boy in Yonkers, I was the village jockey, and I got my training in a hard school —my uncle's livery stable. I delivered nags to distinguished citizens, riding both astride and side saddle, depending on the sex of the customers for ladies didn't wear pants in those days, even for sitting on a horse.

John Wheeler

William G. McAdoo, who afterwards married the daughter of Woodrow Wilson and became Secretary of the Treasury in the order named, kept a kindly old mare and phaeton at the barn which I would hustle up to his residence, a matter of about a mile, and walk back. He must have made a good Secretary of the Treasury because I haven't gotten a tip from him yet, and my prospects are bad since he has been dead several years.

Ever since, I have been interested in horses off and on, and I have been both. When in the Army, I joined the field artillery because a friend of mine, who had fought with the Canadians, advised me to.

"It's not that you won't get shot at as much, but you frequently land near a French wine cellar," he said.

In this service, I was soon on a first-name basis with a lot of horses, most of them with pretty bad dispositions. I had to pick up their feet and examine their teeth and finally in France got on a re-mount detail where he handled stallions. You might as well be a lion tamer in the circus. While at Plattsburg, a celebrated British artilleryman wearing a lot of ribbons came up to give us some skull practice. Colonel Wolf, the commander, handed him a big build-up when he introduced him and then forgot his name. So have I, but the Colonel had to ask him publicly.

A Little Sugar

Four years ago I bought a big black horse named Carry Over for $600 and, among his other good points, he was a misogynist (women hater to you). If one stood in front of his box stall, he would stretch his neck out and try to bite her in the beak. A couple of times he was successful when he got long-nosed targets. He must have been teased by a female at some time as who hasn't. He turned out pretty well, except you had to get an act of Congress to shoe him and a blacksmith from another county, as he was too well-known in the neighborhood. I broke him of this by picking up his feet and rewarding him with lumps of sugar.

A few weeks ago, I decided to sell him, but couldn't find much demand until a young man came along and rode him one day. He offered me $100, and, although I wanted to get rid of the zebra, I turned it down, and we finally compromised on $150. You see we used to have a lot of riders around my farm, until now I am the only survivor and have a good mare. A horse standing still eats practically as much as any other.

My customer lives in Wilton, a distance of fifteen miles by road from my farm, so I decided to ride Carry Over to his barn last Sunday before he could change his mind. The animal had never been on the hard highway since I bought him, and apparently he didn't like it, for he was shying at manholes and being grazed by traffic. I rode through Ridgefield just at church time and felt like Lady Godiva, as I am sure there were surprised residents peeking out from behind their blinds. Little children would shout,

"Oh, look at the man on the horse."

Dogs barked and nipped at his hocks as I went by, and one man fired off a shotgun at a clay pigeon in his backyard which nearly landed me there, too. I finally made it and collected the money. As David Harum might say.

"Caveat Emptor, or never let a customer change his mind."

It is true I took a loss, but it reminds me of the woman who bought a pig for $50 and sold him after six months for $25. Said her lawyer when he heard of the transaction,

"You can't make any money that way."

"Yes, but I had the use of the pig, didn't I?" she answered.

Cleveland Scores 10 To 0 Grudge Victory Over Giants

Groza's Goal, Jones' 68-Yard Run Win Game

52,215 Spectators See Browns Virtually Bag Title In Conference

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (INS) — The Cleveland Browns turned two rapier-like first quarter thrusts into a 10-to-0 grudge victory over the New York Giants today to virtually wrap up the National Football League's American Conference championship.

A 32-yard field goal by Lou Groza and a 68-yard jaunt by Dub Jones on a screen pass from Otto Graham gave the Browns all the margin they needed before a crowd of 52,215—largest Polo Grounds attendance in five years.

First Shutout Since 1948

It was the third straight Cleveland triumph in the bitter series with the Giants, the widest gap by which any of their five improglios has been decided, and the first shutout for the Giants since 1948.

But this was a typically bitter struggle between two teams that have built up a king-sized hatred in less than two years of rivalry.

The Browns gave the Giants the edge in everything but the final score—first downs, total yardage and the like — but they yielded not one inch willingly.

Typically, with the final, minute of the game ticking away, they shut the door in the Giants' faces with an iron stand on the one-yard line. Three times, they fended off the frantic New Yorkers after a 50-yard Chuck Conerly-to-Bob Hudson pass had given the Giants their best chance.

Groza's field goal came with the game less than five minutes old after Cliff Lewis intercepted a Conerly pass on his own 43 and hustled it back to the Giant 28.

Two and a half minutes later, Graham flipped a short screen pass off to the left to Jones, and the 6-foot 4-inch, 205-pound halfback went all the way on a twisting run without any blocking to speak of.

After that, the Browns got into scoring range only once, Groza missing a 45-yard field goal attempt on the last play of the first half.

Gain Only 56 On Ground

The Giants made 11 first downs to the Browns' six. They gained 98 yards rushing to the Browns' 56, and a total of 238 yards to the Browns' 218. Conerly completely 13 or 23 passes to Graham's eight out of 18. The Giants intercepted three times to the Browns' once.

But it was the Browns—a champion every year since they were organized in 1946—who raked in the blue chips. Now they're a game and a half ahead of the Giants—who — have a tie as well as two losses — and it doesn't look like anyone in the American Conference can head them.

Except for their last minute chance at least to avert a whitewashing, the Giants' best chances came when Ray Poole was wide on a 28-yard field goal effort in the first period, when they reached the Cleveland 25 on a second quarter sustained drive, and when Otto Schnellbacher intercepted a third-period Graham pass on the 34.

Sscore by periods:

Redskins Trip Steelers, 22-7

Dudley Kicks Three Goals In 10 Minutes

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 18 (AP) — Bullet Bill Dudley booted three field goals within 10 minutes and fullback Bob Goode ploughed over for two touchdowns today to lead the Washington Redskins to a 22-7 National Football League win over the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Dudley kicked a 30-yard field goal in the third period and added two more from the 37 in the fourth. Goode, 224-pound line bucker, scored on a two-yard plunge in the second and sprinted 11 yards to touchdown territory in the final stanza.

A crowd of 15,060, braving 23 degree temperature and snow flurries, saw the Steelers take a 7-6 halftime lead on halfback Ray Matthews' brilliant 68-yard touchdown run in the second quarter.

The win moved the Redskins into fourth place in the American League Conference with three victories in eight games, and shoved the Steelers into fifth place.

Unable to make much headway on Sammy Baugh's aerials, Washington put on a dazzling ground attack with Goode eating up yardage every time he carried the ball. He made a net gain of 102 yards. Both teams muffed scoring opportunities in the first quarter, the only scoreless period in the freezing contest.

Score by periods:

Pittsburgh	0	7	0	0	7
Washington	0	6	3	13	22

Bi-State League Will Vote Dec. 2 On Commissioner

A special committee of the Bi-State Baseball League met yesterday at the Lonaconing V.F.W. Home and nominated a prominent Allegany county man as "commissioner" of the circuit.

The name will be submitted for approval or rejection at the next session of the league to be held Sunday, December 2, at 2 p. m. in the Frostburg City Hall.

Members of the special committee named to choose a commissioner were President Carl "Pete" Dicken, Dr. Samuel Koplovitz, Henry Vogtman and John Meyers.

Teams desiring to play in the league next year are required to post forfeit fees at the Dec. 2 meeting.

League officials are hopeful that there will be an eight instead of a six-team circuit in 1952. Grantsville is reported to be among the new teams seeking a Bi-State franchise. Some doubt has been expressed as to whether Lonaconing will field a team in 1952.

Chicago Bears Rally To Topple Green Bay 24-13

Two Second Half Counters Turn Tide

CHICAGO, Nov. 18 (INS) — A second-half rally which gave them two touchdowns earned the Chicago Bears a 24 to 13 victory over the Green Bay Packers today in a hard-fought National Football League game at Wrigley Field before 36,771 fans.

The Bears trailed 13 to 10 at the half, but roared back for single touchdowns in the third and fourth quarters.

After the Chicago eleven recovered a Packers' fumble on the Bears' 11-yard stripe in the third period, the Bears moved 89 yards for the touchdown that put them ahead, 17 to 13.

Passes by Steve Romanik and line plunges by Julie Rykovich, John Dottley and George Gulyanics ate up the yardage to the Packers' goal line, with Gulyanics going over for the touchdown from the Green Bay three.

The Bears went 63 yards for their final touchdown. Rykovich ploughed over from the one-yard mark.

The Chicagoans took an early first quarter lead when George Blanda kicked a 35-yard field goal.

The Packers scored two touchdowns in the second quarter, largely due to passes and runs by Tobin Rote which set up the scoring plays. Dom Moselle plunged over from the five for the first Green Bay touchdown. Tony Canadeo carried from the Bears' 10 for the second Packer score.

The Bears tallied their first touchdown in the second quarter on a drive from midfield. A pass, Romanik to J. R. Boone, which carried to the Packer one was the setup play. Romanik rammed over for the touchdown on a quarterback sneak.

Layne's Passes Defeat Eagles

Detroit Lions Score At Shibe Park, 28-10

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 18 (INS)—Bobby Layne passed for three touchdowns today to pace the Detriot Lions to a 28 to 10 come-from-behind victory over the Philadelphia Eagles before 25,350 fans at Shibe Park.

Two interceptions and a recovered fumble allowed the Lions to come from in back of a 10 to 0 first quarter deficit. All four Detroit scores came via the air.

Layne's three td heaves gave him 20 for the season, eight short of Sid Luckman's National Football League record.

The Eagles got off to a 10-0 lead on a 33-yard field goal by Bob Walston and Adrian Burk's 38-yard pass to Pete Pihos.

Jack Christiansen intercepted one of Burk's tosses late in the first half and ran it back 53 yards to the Eagle 18 to set up Detroit's first score. Layne heaved to Hunchy Hoernschemeyer for the score with four seconds left.

A recovered fumble set up the second td in the third period. Layne passed 20-yards to Dorne Dibble for the touchdown. Hoernschemeyer's 30-yarder to Dibble gave the Lions six points and after an interception by Bob Smith set them up, the Motor City team scored in the fourth period when Layne pitched seven yards to Leon Hart.

Doak Walker kicked four extra points for the winners.

Kentucky Tests Tennessee, Illini Face Wildcats Saturday

Nation's Top Teams Win Easy Victories

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (AP) — The giant rays of the national college football spotlight shift this week to Evanston, Ill., and Lexington, Ky., where two of the major bowl assignments may be decided.

At Evanston, Illinois' fine team—its Pasadena Special delayed by yesterday's scoreless tie with Ohio State—shoots for the Western Conference championship and a Rose Bowl bid against Northwestern in the final game for both.

The Illini can quickly squash all sorts of threatening complications by scoring a victory. Should they lose to this tough adversary they haven't beaten in five years, then Purdue and Wisconsin stand ready to plunge into the act.

Kentucky Hosts Tennessee

Lexington, renowned blue grass home of turf and cage champions, plays host to Dixie's annual late-fall headliner. This involves Tennessee's bare-legged bruisers and Kentucky's rebounding Wildcats, rated one of the country's great teams despite three early season setbacks.

Unbeaten Tennessee already is committed to play Maryland in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, so a victory for Kentucky—held not too unlikely—would make the Wildcats probably the No. 1 preference for unfilled spots in the Cotton and Orange bowls.

Stanford's brash, young upstarts, "dark horses" of the Pacific Coast, put the Rose Bowl assignment under lock and key yesterday by overpowering Oregon State 35-14. It was their ninth straight triumph.

This week the Indians close their regular campaign against California's Bears, post-war rulers of the conference until this year. But even should they lose, Stanford's men appear a cinch for the bowl, having already trounced the other two contenders—UCLA and Southern California.

The two Southwest Conference leaders, TCU and Rice, clash Saturday at Fort Worth but a victory either way won't settle the issue. TCU must play SMU a week later while Rice must tackle Baylor. Baylor plays SMU Saturday, Texas closes with Texas A&M Nov. 29. Baylor, Texas and Rice are close behind the leaders.

It was Texas that clobbered the buttermilk yesterday, handing TCU its first league loss, 32-21. Rice topped the Texas Aggies, 28-13; SMU smashed Arkansas, 47-7, and Baylor beat Wake Forest, an intersectional rival, 42-0.

The dwindling list of major unbeaten and untied teams was reduced to six as Cincinnati, after nine straight victories, bowed to Xavier, 26-0, and Illinois suffered the ignominy of a draw.

Remaining perfect records belong to Stanford (9-0) and Michigan State, Princeton, San Francisco, Tennessee and Maryland, with eight wins each.

Michigan State Rallies

Michigan State, which leaped into the No. 1 position in last week's AP poll after a smashing victory over Notre Dame, had more than a workout with Indiana and had to rally to win, 30-26, after being tied at the half.

Tennessee No. 2, easily overpowered Mississippi, 46-21, while its Sugar Bowl opponent, Maryland, No. 5, refused to be outdone, ripping North Carolina State, 53-0.

Princeton's road show of Dick Kazmaier and Co., downed Yale, 27-0, the 21st straight victory for the sixth-ranked team. Georgia Tech, No. 7, trounced Alabama, 27-7; Wisconsin, No. 8, subdued Iowa, 34-7; Kentucky, No. 9, smashed George Washington, 47-13, and Baylor, No. 10, won over Wake Forest, 42-0. Stanford is No. 4.

The two downtrodden service elevens — Army and Navy — and Notre Dame also figured prominently in the news.

Navy finally found its true potential to defeat Columbia, 21-7, for its first victory of the season. Army, priming for the service classic at Philadelphia Dec. 1, scared the daylights out of Pennsylvania before losing, 7-6.

Notre Dame, still nursing the bruises inflicted by Michigan State, had a real struggle before vanquishing North Carolina, 12-7.

18 Win 23 Turkeys In Ridgeley Shoot

Eighteen persons shared 23 birds in the annual Thanksgiving turkey shoot of the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club, held yesterday at its traps on the Frankfort Road.

The clay and still target program was staged in cold and windy weather marked by snow flurries.

Another shoot is scheduled for Sunday, December 2.

Harry Naugle, Cumberland, led yesterday's winners by taking three turkeys. Loraine Eisenberg, Cumberland; Calvin Collis, Bunker Hill, W. Va., and Mike Edenhart, Ridgeley, won two each.

Maryland Cops Eighth, Meets Mounties Next

Scores Smashing Win Over Wolfpack, 53-0

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Nov. 18 (AP)—Coach Jim Tatum was scheduled to fly to New Orleans today to sign a Sugar Bowl contract while his "Terrific Terps" stayed home to celebrate yesterday's smashing victory over North Carolina State.

Maryland clobbered the Wolfpack 53 to 0 here yesterday while the Tennessee Vols, their Sugar Bowl opponents, walloped Mississippi 46 to 21.

Tatum's Terps have only to conquer West Virginia next Saturday and they will journey to New Orleans for the New Year's Day contest with an unblemished slate.

If the Vols get by Kentucky next Saturday and Vanderbilt on Dec. 1, they, too, will go into the bowl game undefeated.

A defeat for either second ranked Tennessee or fifth rated Maryland would be quite an upset.

The Terrapins yesterday completely outclassed the same opponent which last year wrecked their bowl hopes 16 to 13 here at Byrd stadium.

Seven keyed-up young men contributed to the scoring as Maryland extracted its revenge for last year's humiliation.

Quarterback Jack Scarbath and Ed (Mighty Mo) Modzelewski, bruising 210-pound fullback, scored two touchdowns each. Linebacker Ed Kensler, Ralph Felton, a halfback; left end Lloyd Colteryahn and halfback Ed Fullerton also crossed the goal line. Don Decker kicked five of eight conversion attempts.

For the fifth time this season, Modzelewski outgained the opposing team's combined rushing offense. "Mighty Mo" netted 89 yards in 11 tries. State gathered only 40 yards on the ground.

Ralph Felton, 185-pound sophomore from Midway, Pa., was the offensive leader, netting 186 yards in 13 attempts.

On the line it was Dick Modzelewski (Little Mo) 230 pound tackle and brother of "Mighty Mo."

"He played one of the greatest games at tackle I have ever seen," said North Carolina State's coach Beattie Feathers.

Dick accounted for at least a dozen tackles on his own.

It was the eighth straight 1951 triumph for Maryland, and it stretched their consecutive winning string to ten. The crushing conquest posed an all-time scoring record for Maryland grid teams. It gave the Terps 299 points against eight opponents, a total of 25 points more than they tallied against 10 teams last year.

These Troubled Times!

Dallas Sports Writer Condemns Maryland For Accepting Bowl Bid

Disservice To Sports, Bill Rives Opines

DALLAS, Nov. 18 (AP)—Bill Rives, sports editor of the Dallas News, today rapped Maryland for accepting a bid to the Sugar Bowl without its conference's permission and said the action was a disservice to intercollegiate athletics.

In his daily column, Rives declared that Maryland, in taking the bowl bid, figuratively thumbed its nose at its own conference "and the Sugar Bowl was a partner to the conspiracy."

He declared that these were troublous times in intercollegiate athletics as educators and coaches all over the nation concern themselves with deep explorations into athletic practices "seeking to bring sports back to a sensible level."

NCAA To Meet

And, he said, Maryland's action was a disservice because one of the suggestions which has been made in the hunt for a means of reducing athletic "pressures" is the study of a possible elimination of post season football games.

"Within three days after Maryland's action, the NCAA council will be meeting in Chicago to formulate a definite program designed to release the pressures which have sent athletics to the sick bed," the News sports editor wrote. "As the council members convene Monday, there is certain to be a lot of head-shaking over Maryland's disregard of the basic principles of honesty and fair-handed dealing. Maryland and the Sugar Bowl, at a time when wisdom and honor are sorely needed in athletics, have created another headache."

Rives, pointed out that the Southern Conference, of which Maryland is a member, has not taken any action on the subject of bowl games but that the presidents of the conference schools voted last September to recommend a ban on post-season contests. That recommendation is due to be presented for formal conference action Dec. 16.

Bypassed Conference

Maryland was one of several teams being considered by the Cotton Bowl but Cotton Bowl representatives told Maryland that in order to remain "in the running" it would have to obtain permission of the Southern Conference, Rives continued.

Discussing why Maryland "bypassed its own conference," Rives said "it seems logical to assume that Maryland was afraid" to poll its conference members. "By plunging ahead and taking the Sugar Bowl offer, Maryland put the Southern Conference in an embarrassing position. The conference will find itself, at the December meeting, faced with a fait accompli."

Rives declared that "the spectacle of a school refusing to act honorably and ethically, because it is prestige-mad or greedy, or both, will sicken some of the men who are charged with the conduct of college athletics."

Terrors Cop Title In M-D Conference

[By The Associated Press]

Western Maryland, which figured in pre-season picking as the team to beat in the Mason-Dixon Football Conference, has the championship today and an unbeaten record to boot.

The Green Terrors rang down the curtain Saturday in authoritative fashion with a 33-6 victory over Johns Hopkins. It was the eighth straight triumph for Charlie Havens' single-wing team, and the third conference win.

Meanwhile, in non-league action Hampden-Sydney buried Shepherd under a 47-0 avalanche, while Randolph-Macon was dropping the "Little Six" Virginia stakes to Emory and Henry, 39-20.

It was Western Maryland's second championship in the young Mason-Dixon Conference. It took the title in 1949 and although undefeated last year, ran second to Randolph-Macon, which played more games.

Louis Kayos Sailors On Exhibition Tour

TOKYO, Nov. 19 — (Monday) — (INS)—Joe Louis kayoed two husky sailors last night and took on four other U. S. servicemen in exhibition bouts which gave Tokyo fight fans their first glimpse of the aging former world's heavyweight champion.

An estimated 20,000 persons saw the Brown Bomber display flashes of the ring brilliance which helped him hold on to his crown for 12 years.

The vanquished navy men, both six feet, one inch in height were Willie Polite, 200, and Allan Williams, 185.

The fight was jointly sponsored by the Tokyo newspaper Yomiuri and another organization for the benefit of underprivileged Japanse children.

Cleveland Scores 10 To 0 Grudge Victory Over Giants

52,215 Spectators See Browns Virtually Bag Title In Conference

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (INS) — The Cleveland Browns turned two rapier-like first quarter thrusts into a 10-to-0 grudge victory over the New York Giants today to virtually wrap up the National Football League's American Conference championship.

A 32-yard field goal by Lou Groza and a 68-yard jaunt by Dub Jones on a screen pass from Otto Graham gave the Browns all the margin they needed before a crowd of 52,215—largest Polo Grounds attendance in five years.

First Shutout Since 1948

It was the third straight Cleveland triumph in the bitter series with the Giants, the widest gap by which any of their five improglios has been decided, and the first shutout for the Giants since 1948.

But this was a typically bitter struggle between two teams that have built up a king-sized hatred in less than two years of rivalry.

The Browns gave the Giants the edge in everything but the final score—first downs, total yardage and the like — but they yielded not one inch willingly.

Typically, with the final, minute of the game ticking away, they shut the door in the Giants' faces with an iron stand on the one-yard line. Three times, they fended off the frantic New Yorkers after a 50-yard Chuck Conerly-to-Bob Hudson pass had given the Giants their best chance.

Groza's field goal came with the game less than five minutes old after Cliff Lewis intercepted a Conerly pass on his own 43 and hustled it back to the Giant 28.

Two and a half minutes later, Graham flipped a short screen pass off to the left to Jones, and the 6-foot 4-inch, 205-pound halfback went all the way on a twisting run without any blocking to speak of.

After that, the Browns got into scoring range only once, Groza missing a 45-yard field goal attempt on the last play of the first half.

Gain Only 56 On Ground

The Giants made 11 first downs to the Browns' six. They gained 98 yards rushing to the Browns' 56, and a total of 238 yards to the Browns' 218. Conerly completely 13 or 23 passes to Graham's eight out of 18. The Giants intercepted three times to the Browns' once.

But it was the Browns—a champion every year since they were organized in 1946—who raked in the blue chips. Now they're a game and a half ahead of the Giants—who — have a tie as well as two losses — and it doesn't look like anyone in the American Conference can head them.

Except for their last minute chance at least to avert a whitewashing, the Giants' best chances came when Ray Poole was wide on a 28-yard field goal effort in the first period, when they reached the Cleveland 25 on a second quarter sustained drive, and when Otto Schnellbacher intercepted a third-period Graham pass on the 34.

Redskins Trip Steelers, 22-7

Dudley Kicks Three Goals In 10 Minutes

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 18 (AP) — Bullet Bill Dudley booted three field goals within 10 minutes and fullback Bob Goode ploughed over for two touchdowns today to lead the Washington Redskins to a 22-7 National Football League win over the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Dudley kicked a 30-yard field goal in the third period and added two more from the 37 in the fourth. Goode, 224-pound line bucker, scored on a two-yard plunge in the second and sprinted 11 yards to touchdown territory in the final stanza.

A crowd of 15,060, braving 23 degree temperature and snow flurries, saw the Steelers take a 7-6 halftime lead on halfback Ray Matthews' brilliant 68-yard touchdown run in the second quarter.

The win moved the Redskins into fourth place in the American League Conference with three victories in eight games, and shoved the Steelers into fifth place.

Unable to make much headway on Sammy Baugh's aerials, Washington put on a dazzling ground attack with Goode eating up yardage every time he carried the ball. He made a net gain of 102 yards. Both teams muffed scoring opportunities in the first quarter, the only scoreless period in the freezing contest.

Bi-State League Will Vote Dec. 2 On Commissioner

A special committee of the Bi-State Baseball League met yesterday at the Lonaconing V.F.W. Home and nominated a prominent Allegany county man as "commissioner" of the circuit.

The name will be submitted for approval or rejection at the next session of the league to be held Sunday, December 2, at 2 p. m. in the Frostburg City Hall.

Members of the special committee named to choose a commissioner were President Carl "Pete" Dicken, Dr. Samuel Koplovitz, Henry Vogtman and John Meyers.

Teams desiring to play in the league next year are required to post forfeit fees at the Dec. 2 meeting.

League officials are hopeful that there will be an eight instead of a six-team circuit in 1952. Grantsville is reported to be among the new teams seeking a Bi-State franchise. Some doubt has been expressed as to whether Lonaconing will field a team in 1952.

Chicago Bears Rally To Topple Green Bay 24-13

Two Second Half Counters Turn Tide

CHICAGO, Nov. 18 (INS) — A second-half rally which gave them two touchdowns earned the Chicago Bears a 24 to 13 victory over the Green Bay Packers today in a hard-fought National Football League game at Wrigley Field before 36,771 fans.

The Bears trailed 13 to 10 at the half, but roared back for single touchdowns in the third and fourth quarters.

After the Chicago eleven recovered a Packers' fumble on the Bears' 11-yard stripe in the third period, the Bears moved 89 yards for the touchdown that put them ahead, 17 to 13.

Passes by Steve Romanik and line plunges by Julie Rykovich, John Dottley and George Gulyanics ate up the yardage to the Packers' goal line, with Gulyanics going over for the touchdown from the Green Bay three.

The Bears went 63 yards for their final touchdown. Rykovich ploughed over from the one-yard mark.

The Chicagoans took an early first quarter lead when George Blanda kicked a 35-yard field goal.

The Packers scored two touchdowns in the second quarter, largely due to passes and runs by Tobin Rote which set up the scoring plays. Dom Moselle plunged over from the five for the first Green Bay touchdown. Tony Canadeo carried from the Bears' 10 for the second Packer score.

The Bears tallied their first touchdown in the second quarter on a drive from midfield. A pass, Romanik to J. R. Boone, which carried to the Packer one was the setup play. Romanik rammed over for the touchdown on a quarterback sneak.

Layne's Passes Defeat Eagles

Detroit Lions Score At Shibe Park, 28-10

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 18 (INS)—Bobby Layne passed for three touchdowns today to pace the Detriot Lions to a 28 to 10 come-from-behind victory over the Philadelphia Eagles before 25,350 fans at Shibe Park.

Two interceptions and a recovered fumble allowed the Lions to come from in back of a 10 to 0 first quarter deficit. All four Detroit scores came via the air.

Layne's three td heaves gave him 20 for the season, eight short of Sid Luckman's National Football League record.

The Eagles got off to a 10-0 lead on a 33-yard field goal by Bob Walston and Adrian Burk's 38-yard pass to Pete Pihos.

Jack Christiansen intercepted one of Burk's tosses late in the first half and ran it back 53 yards to the Eagle 18 to set up Detroit's first score. Layne heaved to Hunchy Hoernschemeyer for the score with four seconds left.

A recovered fumble set up the second td in the third period. Layne passed 20-yards to Dorne Dibble for the touchdown. Hoernschemeyer's 30-yarder to Dibble gave the Lions six points and after an interception by Bob Smith set them up, the Motor City team scored in the fourth period when Layne pitched seven yards to Leon Hart.

Doak Walker kicked four extra points for the winners.

Kentucky Tests Tennessee, Illini Face Wildcats Saturday

Nation's Top Teams Win Easy Victories

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (AP) — The giant rays of the national college football spotlight shift this week to Evanston, Ill., and Lexington, Ky., where two of the major bowl assignments may be decided.

At Evanston, Illinois' fine team—its Pasadena Special delayed by yesterday's scoreless tie with Ohio State—shoots for the Western Conference championship and a Rose Bowl bid against Northwestern in the final game for both.

The Illini can quickly squash all sorts of threatening complications by scoring a victory. Should they lose to this tough adversary they haven't beaten in five years, then Purdue and Wisconsin stand ready to plunge into the act.

Kentucky Hosts Tennessee

Lexington, renowned blue grass home of turf and cage champions, plays host to Dixie's annual late-fall headliner. This involves Tennessee's bare-legged bruisers and Kentucky's rebounding Wildcats, rated one of the country's great teams despite three early season setbacks.

Unbeaten Tennessee already is committed to play Maryland in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, so a victory for Kentucky—held not too unlikely—would make the Wildcats probably the No. 1 preference for unfilled spots in the Cotton and Orange bowls.

Stanford's brash, young upstarts, "dark horses" of the Pacific Coast, put the Rose Bowl assignment under lock and key yesterday by overpowering Oregon State 35-14. It was their ninth straight triumph.

This week the Indians close their regular campaign against California's Bears, post-war rulers of the conference until this year. But even should they lose, Stanford's men appear a cinch for the bowl, having already trounced the other two contenders—UCLA and Southern California.

The two Southwest Conference leaders, TCU and Rice, clash Saturday at Fort Worth but a victory either way won't settle the issue. TCU must play SMU a week later while Rice must tackle Baylor. Baylor plays SMU Saturday, Texas closes with Texas A&M Nov. 29. Baylor, Texas and Rice are close behind the leaders.

It was Texas that clobbered the buttermilk yesterday, handing TCU its first league loss, 32-21. Rice topped the Texas Aggies, 28-13; SMU smashed Arkansas, 47-7, and Baylor beat Wake Forest, an intersectional rival, 42-0.

The dwindling list of major unbeaten and untied teams was reduced to six as Cincinnati, after nine straight victories, bowed to Xavier, 26-0, and Illinois suffered the ignominy of a draw.

Remaining perfect records belong to Stanford (9-0) and Michigan State, Princeton, San Francisco, Tennessee and Maryland, with eight wins each.

Michigan State Rallies

Michigan State, which leaped into the No. 1 position in last week's AP poll after a smashing victory over Notre Dame, had more than a workout with Indiana and had to rally to win, 30-26, after being tied at the half.

Tennessee No. 2, easily overpowered Mississippi, 46-21, while its Sugar Bowl opponent, Maryland, No. 5, refused to be outdone, ripping North Carolina State, 53-0.

Princeton's road show of Dick Kazmaier and Co., downed Yale, 27-0, the 21st straight victory for the sixth-ranked team. Georgia Tech, No. 7, trounced Alabama, 27-7; Wisconsin, No. 8, subdued Iowa, 34-7; Kentucky, No. 9, smashed George Washington, 47-13, and Baylor, No. 10, won over Wake Forest, 42-0. Stanford is No. 4.

The two downtrodden service elevens — Army and Navy — and Notre Dame also figured prominently in the news.

Navy finally found its true potential to defeat Columbia, 21-7, for its first victory of the season. Army, priming for the service classic at Philadelphia Dec. 1, scared the daylights out of Pennsylvania before losing, 7-6.

Notre Dame, still nursing the bruises inflicted by Michigan State, had a real struggle before vanquishing North Carolina, 12-7.

18 Win 23 Turkeys In Ridgeley Shoot

Eighteen persons shared 23 birds in the annual Thanksgiving turkey shoot of the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club, held yesterday at its traps on the Frankfort Road.

The clay and still target program was staged in cold and windy weather marked by snow flurries.

Another shoot is scheduled for Sunday, December 2.

Harry Naugle, Cumberland, led yesterday's winners by taking three turkeys. Loraine Eisenberg, Cumberland; Calvin Collis, Bunker Hill, W. Va., and Mike Edenhart, Ridgeley, won two each.

Those winning one bird apiece were Willis Anderson, Gore, Va.; William Tallman, Ridgeley; Tony Francis, Westernport; Isadore Kamens, Cumberland; Junior Puffinburger and Tom Hauser, Cumberland; Edgar McDonald, Headsville, W. Maryland Cops Eighth, Meets Mounties Next

Scores Smashing Win Over Wolfpack, 53-0

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Nov. 18 (AP)—Coach Jim Tatum was scheduled to fly to New Orleans today to sign a Sugar Bowl contract while his "Terrific Terps" stayed home to celebrate yesterday's smashing victory over North Carolina State.

Maryland clobbered the Wolfpack 53 to 0 here yesterday while the Tennessee Vols, their Sugar Bowl opponents, walloped Mississippi 46 to 21.

Tatum's Terps have only to conquer West Virginia next Saturday and they will journey to New Orleans for the New Year's Day contest with an unblemished slate.

If the Vols get by Kentucky next Saturday and Vanderbilt on Dec. 1, they, too, will go into the bowl game undefeated.

A defeat for either second ranked Tennessee or fifth rated Maryland would be quite an upset.

The Terrapins yesterday completely outclassed the same opponent which last year wrecked their bowl hopes 16 to 13 here at Byrd stadium.

Seven keyed-up young men contributed to the scoring as Maryland extracted its revenge for last year's humiliation.

Quarterback Jack Scarbath and Ed (Mighty Mo) Modzelewski, bruising 210-pound fullback, scored two touchdowns each. Linebacker Ed Kensler, Ralph Felton, a halfback; left end Lloyd Colteryahn and halfback Ed Fullerton also crossed the goal line. Don Decker kicked five of eight conversion attempts.

For the fifth time this season, Modzelewski outgained the opposing team's combined rushing offense. "Mighty Mo" netted 89 yards in 11 tries. State gathered only 40 yards on the ground.

Ralph Felton, 185-pound sophomore from Midway, Pa., was the offensive leader, netting 186 yards in 13 attempts.

On the line it was Dick Modzelewski (Little Mo) 230 pound tackle and brother of "Mighty Mo."

"He played one of the greatest games at tackle I have ever seen," said North Carolina State's coach Beattie Feathers.

Dick accounted for at least a dozen tackles on his own.

It was the eighth straight 1951 triumph for Maryland, and it stretched their consecutive winning string to ten. The crushing conquest posed an all-time scoring record for Maryland grid teams. It gave the Terps 299 points against eight opponents, a total of 25 points more than they tallied against 10 teams last year.

These Troubled Times!

Dallas Sports Writer Condemns Maryland For Accepting Bowl Bid

Disservice To Sports, Bill Rives Opines

DALLAS, Nov. 18 (AP)—Bill Rives, sports editor of the Dallas News, today rapped Maryland for accepting a bid to the Sugar Bowl without its conference's permission and said the action was a disservice to intercollegiate athletics.

In his daily column, Rives declared that Maryland, in taking the bowl bid, figuratively thumbed its nose at its own conference "and the Sugar Bowl was a partner to the conspiracy."

He declared that these were troublous times in intercollegiate athletics as educators and coaches all over the nation concern themselves with deep explorations into athletic practices "seeking to bring sports back to a sensible level."

NCAA To Meet

And, he said, Maryland's action was a disservice because one of the suggestions which has been made in the hunt for a means of reducing athletic "pressures" is the study of a possible elimination of post season football games.

"Within three days after Maryland's action, the NCAA council will be meeting in Chicago to formulate a definite program designed to release the pressures which have sent athletics to the sick bed," the News sports editor wrote. "As the council members convene Monday, there is certain to be a lot of head-shaking over Maryland's disregard of the basic principles of honesty and fair-handed dealing. Maryland and the Sugar Bowl, at a time when wisdom and honor are sorely needed in athletics, have created another headache."

Rives, pointed out that the Southern Conference, of which Maryland is a member, has not taken any action on the subject of bowl games but that the presidents of the conference schools voted last September to recommend a ban on post-season contests. That recommendation is due to be presented for formal conference action Dec. 16.

Bypassed Conference

Maryland was one of several teams being considered by the Cotton Bowl but Cotton Bowl representatives told Maryland that in order to remain "in the running" it would have to obtain permission of the Southern Conference, Rives continued.

Discussing why Maryland "bypassed its own conference," Rives said "it seems logical to assume that Maryland was afraid" to poll its conference members. "By plunging ahead and taking the Sugar Bowl offer, Maryland put the Southern Conference in an embarrassing position. The conference will find itself, at the December meeting, faced with a fait accompli."

Rives declared that "the spectacle of a school refusing to act honorably and ethically, because it is prestige-mad or greedy, or both, will sicken some of the men who are charged with the conduct of college athletics."

Terrors Cop Title In M-D Conference

[By The Associated Press]

Western Maryland, which figured in pre-season picking as the team to beat in the Mason-Dixon Football Conference, has the championship today and an unbeaten record to boot.

The Green Terrors rang down the curtain Saturday in authoritative fashion with a 33-6 victory over Johns Hopkins. It was the eighth straight triumph for Charlie Havens' single-wing team, and the third conference win.

Meanwhile, in non-league action Hampden-Sydney buried Shepherd under a 47-0 avalanche, while Randolph-Macon was dropping the "Little Six" Virginia stakes to Emory and Henry, 39-20.

It was Western Maryland's second championship in the young Mason-Dixon Conference. It took the title in 1949 and although undefeated last year, ran second to Randolph-Macon, which played more games.

Final standings:

	Conference W	L	T	Pct.	All Games W	L	T	Pct.
Western Md.	3	0	0	1.000	8	0	0	1.000
Randolph-Macon	3	1	1	.750	5	3	1	.625
Hampden-Sydney	1	1	2	.500	4	3	2	.571
Bridgewater	1	2	0	.333	1	3	0	.250
Johns Hopkins	0	2	1	.000	2	5	1	.285
Gallaudet	0	2	0	.000	1	4	0	.200

Scoring leaders:

	G	TD	Total
Wilson, Randolph-Macon	5	10	60
Holland, Hampden-Sydney	4	5	30
Tullai, Western Md.	3	5	30

Legion Cagers Meet

A meeting of candidates for the American Legion team of the Central YMCA Senior Men's Basketball League will be held tonight at 8:30 at the American Legion Home.

Louis Kayos Sailors On Exhibition Tour

TOKYO, Nov. 19 — (Monday) — (INS)—Joe Louis kayoed two husky sailors last night and took on four other U. S. servicemen in exhibition bouts which gave Tokyo fight fans their first glimpse of the aging former world's heavyweight champion.

An estimated 20,000 persons saw the Brown Bomber display flashes of the ring brilliance which helped him hold on to his crown for 12 years.

The vanquished navy men, both six feet, one inch in height were Willie Polite, 200, and Allan Williams, 185.

The fight was jointly sponsored by the Tokyo newspaper Yomiuri and another organization for the benefit of underprivileged Japanse children.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to friends, neighbors and relatives for their acts of love and sympathy during the recent loss of our beloved husband and father, Walter E. Ross, Midland. We especially thank the Rev. Louis L. Emerick, pastor of Methodist church, for his comforting words and prayers, and to the members of the church choir for their anthems. We are also very grateful for the ritualistic Services of Tigo Tribe Red Men, Knights of Pythias, Jr. O.W.A.M. and D of A members, Frostburg. Also to members of American Legions of Midland, Barton, Westernport, Frostburg and Cumberland and the Vets of Foreign Wars. We also extend our thanks to those who sent floral tributes, loaned cars for the funeral, the pallbearers. Bob Baker Fights In Garden Friday

Clarence Henry Will Oppose Pittsburgher

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (AP) — Bulky Bob Baker of Pittsburgh and clouting Clarence Henry, two of the best young heavyweights in the business, clash Friday night at Madison Square Garden in a ten round bout that may earn the winner a lucrative date with Ezzard Charles.

Baker, undefeated in 26 fights, had his perfect record marred when he was held to a draw by Kid Riviera in Cincinnati last week. The 6-2 215-pounder has scored 17 knockouts.

Henry, riding an 11-fight winning streak, will spot Baker about 30 pounds. Henry, however, has been giving away weight all the time and it hasn't bothered him. A terrific puncher with his left hand, the Los Angeles negro has flattened 15 rivals in 31 fights. His record is 28-2-1, and he reversed his early defeats by Jimmy Bivins and Frank Buford. Both are 25 years old.

The 10 p. m. (EST) bout will be broadcast and telecast.

Holy Cross Wins Over Quantico Marines, 39-14

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 18—(INS)—Charlie Maloy today threw three touchdown passes and set up two other scores as Holy Cross whipped the rugged Quantico Marines, 39 to 14 before 18,000 fans at Fitton Field.

The slick Crusaders were stymied on the ground by the brawny Marine team which is made up of former college and professional players.

Dick Flowers threw a mild scare into the collegians in the second half when he chucked two scoring passes to Jay Roundy which covered 62 and 52 yards respectively.

Score by periods:

Holy Cross	14	12	0	13—39
Quantico	0	0	7	7—14

In addition passing twice for tds, Brehany also scored one of the Keydets' four six-pointers.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18 (INS) — The Professional Golfers' Association announced today that Ben Hogan, national open champion, has been named golfer of the year for the third time in the four-year history of the award.

Association officials said the little Texan completely dominated the poll of the nation's radio sports casters and sports writers. Hogan's total of 164 votes represented 85 per cent of those cast.

Lloyd Mangrum was runner-up, followed by Skip Alexander, Cary Middlecoff and Jim Ferrier, ex-Australian now of San Francisco.

Hogan will receive the plaque which goes with the award at the annual PGA meeting in Chicago, Nov. 26-28.

The chestnut son of Count Fleet, winner of the Belmont, Jockey Club Gold Cup and Empire Gold Cup among others, amassed $250,525 in 15 starts.

Counterpoint drew 28 of the 31 votes cast by editors, handicappers, columnists, correspondents and chart makers of the form. The other three went to Calumet Farm's Citation, first horse ever to win $1,000,000.

The winners in the various categories were:

Three-year-old—Counterpoint
Handicap horse—Hill Prince
Handicap mare—Bed O'Roses

Co-Captains Are Named By AHS, Fort Hill Teams

A trio of co-captains, all seniors, were elected to lead the Fort Hill Sentinels in their annual Turkey Day clash with Allegany Thursday. The Alco eleven also named a pair of senior co-captains.

Dave Ritter, end, Dick Beard, halfback, and Bill Lee, guard, all second year veterans, captured the honors for Coach Bill Hahn's Sentinels. All three have been on the Fort Hill squad for four years, playing the last two as regulars. Beard is the city's leading scorer.

Quarterback Ronnie Sisk and Tackle Dick Widdows are the honorary leaders for Coach Bob Pence's Blue and White team. Sisk has been a regular on the squad for the past three seasons and a member of the team four years.

Widdows, the workhorse of the Allegany eleven, has played end, fullback and tackle and is ending his third year on the team.

Chicago Cards Upset 'Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18 (INS) — Chicago's Cardinals, with six losses this season, today won their second game from the San Francisco 49ers, 27 to 21, in Kezar Stadium at San Francisco.

A crowd of 23,018 watched the game.

The upset victory of the Cards, who previously had toppled the Chicago Bears, definitely eliminated the 49ers from any hope of winning the National Conference of the professional football league.

In the opening minutes of play, quarterback Charley Trippi ran eight yards for Chicago's first touchdown. This topped off a 52-yard, six-play effort. Trippi tossed a seven-yard pass to halfback Elmer Angsman, who ran 73 more for the score. The play netted 80 yards.

Don Paul, the other Cardinal halfback, scored the third td from four yards out after end Tony Klimek had intercepted a 49er pass on the S.F. 41. Six plays, plus a 15-yard roughing penalty against the 49ers, moved it down to the four, from where Paul went over.

Then, just as the first half was closing, Cliff Patton, who kicked the three conversion points after the Card td's, booted a field goal from the S.F. eight yard line.

Patton added another field goal, this one a 24-yarder, in the third period.

Score by periods:

Chicago Cards	7	17	3	0—27
San Francisco	7	0	7	7—21

Bob Baker Fights In Garden Friday

Clarence Henry Will Oppose Pittsburgher

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (AP) — Bulky Bob Baker of Pittsburgh and clouting Clarence Henry, two of the best young heavyweights in the business, clash Friday night at Madison Square Garden in a ten round bout that may earn the winner a lucrative date with Ezzard Charles.

Baker, undefeated in 26 fights, had his perfect record marred when he was held to a draw by Kid Riviera in Cincinnati last week. The 6-2 215-pounder has scored 17 knockouts.

Henry, riding an 11-fight winning streak, will spot Baker about 30 pounds. Henry, however, has been giving away weight all the time and it hasn't bothered him. A terrific puncher with his left hand, the Los Angeles negro has flattened 15 rivals in 31 fights. His record is 28-2-1, and he reversed his early defeats by Jimmy Bivins and Frank Buford. Both are 25 years old.

The 10 p. m. (EST) bout will be broadcast and telecast.

Holy Cross Wins Over Quantico Marines, 39-14

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 18—(INS)—Charlie Maloy today threw three touchdown passes and set up two other scores as Holy Cross whipped the rugged Quantico Marines, 39 to 14 before 18,000 fans at Fitton Field.

The slick Crusaders were stymied on the ground by the brawny Marine team which is made up of former college and professional players.

Dick Flowers threw a mild scare into the collegians in the second half when he chucked two scoring passes to Jay Roundy which covered 62 and 52 yards respectively.

Score by periods:

Holy Cross	14	12	0	13—39
Quantico	0	0	7	7—14

Other high scores included:

Steve Hornick, Guards, 215-525; Benny LaNeve, Chancellors, 190-513; Paul Stakem, Grand Knights, 188-478. The standings:

Sal Maglie Visits Hot Stove Leaguers

Sal Maglie, New York Giants' pitching ace, came here as scheduled Saturday to spark the membership drive of the local Hot Stove League at the Loyal Order of Moose Home.

The 23-6 winner was billed to arrive at 10 a. m., but he didn't come here until mid-afternoon from Pittsburgh due to weather conditions.

Sal met many youngsters, autographed membership cards and baseballs and told a number of amusing stories.

He remained here overnight and headed for his home in Niagara Falls, N. Y., yesterday afternoon.

Brehany Completes Ten Of 20 Aerials, Fires Winning TD

William "Bill" Brehany, one time Ridgeley High School gridiron star, completed 10 passes in 20 attempts for 202 yards and two of the aerials went for touchdowns as Virginia Military Institute nosed out The Citadel Bulldogs by the score of 27-21 Saturday at Charleston, S. C.

A Citadel Homecoming Day crowd saw Brehany, VMI quarterback, rifle a long pass to End Jay Grumbling, who ran the final 30 yards in a 62-yard gain for the 4th quarter touchdown that settled the issue.

In addition passing twice for tds, Brehany also scored one of the Keydets' four six-pointers.

In the six victory group are Trenton, N. J., Teachers, Susquehanna and St. Michael's of Vermont.

The unbeaten, untied list of schools still to finish: Stanford, Michigan State, Princeton, Tennessee, Maryland and San Francisco.

Los Angeles Rams Top Yanks, 48-21

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 18 (INS)—The high-scoring Los Angeles rams had a few anxious moments today but started and finished strong to whip the New York Yanks, 48 to 21, in Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum.

A shirt-sleeved crowd of 34,717 watched the Rams remain in a tie with the Chicago Bears for the lead in the National Conference of the National Professional Football League.

Both the Rams and the Bears have won six and lost two in league competition.

Los Angeles opened with a 20-point scoring binge in the first period, but the Yanks, who have yet to score a win this season, rallied behind George Taliaferro and Buddy Young for their 21-point harvest in the second period. At the intermission the Rams held a 34 to 21 lead.

Dick Hoerner scored twice for the Rams. Jerry Williams, Dan Towler, Bob Waterfield, Elroy Hirsch and V. T. Smith each tallied a single Ram touchdown. Waterfield kicked six conversions.

Taliaferro scored for the Yanks on runs of 65 and 16 yards and passed to Bob Celeri for the other. Harvey Johnson booted all three conversions.

Hogan Is Named Golfer Of Year

CHICAGO, Nov. 18 (INS) — The Professional Golfers' Association announced today that Ben Hogan, national open champion, has been named golfer of the year for the third time in the four-year history of the award.

Association officials said the little Texan completely dominated the poll of the nation's radio sports casters and sports writers. Hogan's total of 164 votes represented 85 per cent of those cast.

Lloyd Mangrum was runner-up, followed by Skip Alexander, Cary Middlecoff and Jim Ferrier, ex-Australian now of San Francisco.

Hogan will receive the plaque which goes with the award at the annual PGA meeting in Chicago, Nov. 26-28.

Horse Of Year Title Accorded Counterpoint

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (AP)—Counterpoint, C. V. Whitney's brilliant three-year-old colt, today was named 1951 horse-of-the-year by the daily racing form and affiliated publications.

The chestnut son of Count Fleet, winner of the Belmont, Jockey Club Gold Cup and Empire Gold Cup among others, amassed $250,525 in 15 starts.

Counterpoint drew 28 of the 31 votes cast by editors, handicappers, columnists, correspondents and chart makers of the form. The other three went to Calumet Farm's Citation, first horse ever to win $1,000,000.

The winners in the various categories were:

Horse-of-the-year — Counterpoint
Two-year-old—Tom Fool
Three-year-old—Counterpoint
Handicap horse—Hill Prince
Handicap mare—Bed O'Roses
Sprinter—Sheilas Reward
Steeplechaser—Oedipus

In the sub-division Tom Fool was voted best two-year-old colt, Rose Jet, top two-year-old filly, and Kiss Me Kate, queen of three-year-old fillies.

Co-Captains Are Named By AHS, Fort Hill Teams

A trio of co-captains, all seniors, were elected to lead the Fort Hill Sentinels in their annual Turkey Day clash with Allegany Thursday. The Alco eleven also named a pair of senior co-captains.

Dave Ritter, end, Dick Beard, halfback, and Bill Lee, guard, all second year veterans, captured the honors for Coach Bill Hahn's Sentinels. All three have been on the Fort Hill squad for four years, playing the last two as regulars. Beard is the city's leading scorer.

Quarterback Ronnie Sisk and Tackle Dick Widdows are the honorary leaders for Coach Bob Pence's Blue and White team. Sisk has been a regular on the squad for the past three seasons and a member of the team four years.

Widdows, the workhorse of the Allegany eleven, has played end, fullback and tackle and is ending his third year on the team.

Chicago Cards Upset 'Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18 (INS) — Chicago's Cardinals, with six losses this season, today won their second game from the San Francisco 49ers, 27 to 21, in Kezar Stadium at San Francisco.

A crowd of 23,018 watched the game.

The upset victory of the Cards, who previously had toppled the Chicago Bears, definitely eliminated the 49ers from any hope of winning the National Conference of the professional football league.

In the opening minutes of play, quarterback Charley Trippi ran eight yards for Chicago's first touchdown. This topped off a 52-yard, six-play effort. Trippi tossed a seven-yard pass to halfback Elmer Angsman, who ran 73 more for the score. The play netted 80 yards.

Don Paul, the other Cardinal halfback, scored the third td from four yards out after end Tony Klimek had intercepted a 49er pass on the S.F. 41. Six plays, plus a 15-yard roughing penalty against the 49ers, moved it down to the four, from where Paul went over.

Then, just as the first half was closing, Cliff Patton, who kicked the three conversion points after the Card td's, booted a field goal from the S.F. eight yard line.

Patton added another field goal, this one a 24-yarder, in the third period.

Score by periods:

Weather Postpones Search For Body Of Third Airman In B-26 Crash Near Oakland

Air Force Discloses Identity Of Victims

BULLETIN

LANGLEY AIR FORCE BASE, Va. — A Langley spokesman said last night the Air Force has high hopes of finding Lt. Prentice E. Ross, Jr., alive. He said the searchers believe Ross may have bailed out and landed in dense undergrowth on the mountainside.

The spokesman said 12 planes of the West Virginia Wing of the Civil Air Patrol are scheduled to join the search today, along with an Air Force helicopter and a twin-engine amphibious plane.

Snow and sub-freezing temperatures last night stalled the search for a third man believed dead in the crash of an Air Force B-26 near Aurora, W. Va.

Officers at Langley Air Force Base identified the missing man as First Lt. Prentice E. Ross, Jr., whose wife, Mrs. Dorothy Phyllis Ross, lives at Hampton, Va. Lt. Ross originally was from Fort Worth, Texas.

Bodies already found near the scene of Friday's crash were those of First Lt. Jerome J. Walsh, the pilot, whose mother, Mrs. Frieda J. Walsh, lives in Milwaukee, Wis., and First Lt. William L. Langdon, navigator, whose mother, Mrs. Rose Munsen Langdon, lives in Moorestown, N. J.

Search Called Off

Last night, First Lt. Arthur Calhoun, commanding officer of the 121st Engineer Combat Battalion, National Guard, at Oakland, said his company's 20-man volunteer rescue team called off the search at sunset.

There was no clue to indicate that Lt. Ross, an observer on the Pittsburgh-to-Langley Field flight was still alive in the rugged mountain country of Preston County, W. Va.

Searchers yesterday combed an area about two miles north of the scene of the crash, but failed to turn up any new evidence.

On Saturday morning, near the Maryland line two miles east of the crash scene, they found a map believed to have been used by Lt. Walsh, the pilot. Master Sergeant John W. Schaeffer, first sergeant of the Oakland Guard unit, said the map indicated the light bomber was "right on course."

Parachute Unopened

They found Walsh's body Saturday afternoon. Schaeffer said the body was in a crouched position near the Brookside Church east of Aurora.

Walsh was wearing an unopened parachute, the pull-ring still in the harness pocket. Air Force officers theorized he was blown from the ship without a chance to open the chute.

Lt. Langdon's body was found shortly after the crash. His navigator's log indicated the Langley-based plane had taken off from Pittsburgh at 4:56 p. m. Friday on the return leg of a routine training flight.

Air Force spokesmen said the three Air Force Reserve officers were attached to the 4400th Combat Crew Training Group at Langley.

Saw Plane Explode

Marsh Shaffer, 77-year-old Eglon, W. Va., farmer, said he saw the crash just off West Virginia State Route 24. Shaffer said the plane dropped a flare, which caught in the tail assembly and set it afire. The plane then spiraled toward the ground and exploded while still 200 feet in the air.

An engine broke apart from the plane and crashed into Shaffer's farm home, but no one in the house was injured. The rest of the plane was scattered over six acres some distance away.

Also participating in the search yesterday and Saturday were West Virginia State Police and members of the 105th Engineer Combat Battalion, Morgantown, W. Va., and other volunteers.

The crash was the third B-26 crash involving Langley fliers in 10 days. Two men died November 5 and three more were killed Thursday night in attempted landings at the field.

Hess Receives Bronze Star For Heroism

Sfc. William V. Hess, 112 Karns Avenue, has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal by Secretary of the Army Frank Pace, Jr., for heroism in ground combat in Korea, it was announced yesterday by Col. Arthur L. Shreve, Chief of the Maryland Military District, Baltimore.

The citation accompany the medal reads:

"Sergeant First Class William V. Hess, Infantry, Company A, 27th Infantry United States Army: On 3 June 1951, Sergeant First Class Hess' unit launched an assault on commanding positions near Pyogyog-am, Korea. When his squad was ordered to withdraw after encountering withering automatic weapons fire, he secured an exposed vantage point and laid down a base of covering fire while his men displaced to safety. After assisting the wounded to the base of the ridge, he reorganized his squad for a second attack.

Halfway up the fire-swept slope, he was wounded by a mortar fragment but continued to press on toward the hostile emplacements. His aggressive spirit so inspired his men that they charged over the crest and routed the enemy from the ridge. Sergeant Hess' courage, resolute leadership and selfless devotion to duty reflect great credit on himself, his unit and the American soldier. Entered military service from Maryland."

A veteran of World War II, having served in the European theater, Hess entered the service in 1941 and was discharged in 1946. A member of the inactive reserve, he was called back to duty in October of last year.

He attended Allegany High School, prior to entry into the army.

Moose Lodges End Three-Day Session Here

A fellowship breakfast yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock and the conferring of the Fellowship Degree featured the closing sessions of a three day mid-winter conclave of the Maryland Moose Association here.

Due to the weather a general meeting of members of the Moose and Auxiliaries at the Beall Street home was postponed as those in attendance from the Eastern part of the United States returned to their homes.

The breakfast was well attended and 18 candidates received the degree according to Lonnie Jackson, governor of Cumberland Lodge No. 271, host for the conclave.

The degree, Jackson added, was conferred on candidates from Maryland by a team of Pilgrims headed by Frank J. Davis.

A dinner-dance was held Saturday night with Rep. J. Glenn Beall as guest speaker. He lauded the Moose for their efforts in behalf of children and the aged.

Among the visiting notables at the dinner-dance was Sal Maglie, a life member of the Moose in his hometown of Niagara Falls, N. Y., and a star pitcher for the New York Giants of the National League.

Dr. H. C. "Curly" Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, opened the three-day program by directing the initiation of a class of 100 candidates Friday night. He praised the Moose program and said if such fraternal groups were worldwide then we could all look forward to a continuing life of peace.

Besides Dr. Byrd, guests at the event included Dr. A. C. Monninger, Baltimore, supreme councilman of the Moose; Ralph D. Moore, of Illinois, general governor of the Moose, and Gordon Jeffrey, of Toledo, Ohio, Mooseheart governor and supreme lodge executive committeeman.

Also attending were John C. Meikle, secretary of Mooseheart Board of Governors at Washington, D. C., and John J. Stoeher, regional director for Ohio, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, and District of Columbia.

Honorary chairmen for the event were Rep. J. Glenn Beall, Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris, and former Judges Walter C. Capper and Oliver H. Bruce, Jr.

Floyd Warnick "Not Guilty" In Arson Cases

Piedmont Man Sent To Asylum By Judge

Floyd C. Warnick, 34-year-old Piedmont, W. Va. man, who was charged with four separate cases of arson, was found not guilty Saturday afternoon in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Judge Morgan C. Harris, officiating at the trial, ruled Warnick not guilty of arson in the four cases on the grounds that he was insane at the time and was insane at the time of trial.

Judge Harris ordered Warnick committed to the Spring Grove State Hospital until he is seen fit to live without constant surveillance. However, he stipulated that the Allegany County Circuit Court approve of his release from the mental institution in order that the judge here could have a check on Warnick's return to Western Maryland.

While Warnick was charged with starting two brush fires, burning a corn crib and a shanty, all in the Westernport area during the reign of terror that compassed the Tri-State section for over a year, he confessed to starting fires in Garrett and Mineral counties.

He blamed his deeds on his war service. One psychologist who examined him, Dr. Manfred Guttmacher, said he could not understand how a person with an intellect as low as Warnick's could be taken into the Army.

Judge Harris highly praised the law enforcement officers who worked long and hard to break the arson series. Four youths have been convicted of starting fires in the Tri-Towns area and are now serving long terms in state prison.

Today's Sermonette

Giving thanks for all things unto God and the Father in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ. Ephesians 5:20

By REV. JOSEPH D. BYERS

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at the Church of the Nazarene, Frostburg, by the pastor, Rev. Joseph D. Byers. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

Giving Thanks

As we approach the season of Thanksgiving with war clouds overshadowing us, homes being broken, individual dreams shattered, we ask the question, "How can there be a true Thanksgiving?"

As the Apostle Paul called on those Christians at Ephesus to join him in the holy exercise of thanksgiving, let us also join in and give thanks.

1. The Object Of Praise

If thanksgiving is "the declarative mood of gratitude," to whom should the declaration be made? Our text answers in one simple, sublime phrase, "Unto God." Who giveth every good and perfect gift. Thank the God whose heavens declare His glory and whose firmament showeth His handiwork. Thank God, "Who hath measured the waters in the hollow of his hand, and meted out heaven with a span, and comprehended the dust of the earth in a measure, and weighed the mountains in scales, and the hills in a balance."

Thank God, who pours the light of morning over the horizon of every day. He sends the clean breezes; colors the flowers, "openeth his hand, and feedeth every living thing. Thank God, who is the Creator behind all creation, the Wisdom behind all philosophy, the Fact behind all science, the Purpose behind all history, the Lover behind all love, the Giver behind all gifts. There was a Christian farmer who placed on his weathervane "God is love." When asked by the unbelieving neighbor if that meant that God's love was as changeable as the weather, he replied: "No, it rather means whichever way the wind blows, God is love." Thank God He is always the same.

2. The Obligation Of Praise

This surely is another part of the Pauline pattern of praise. Rightly understood, our text is more than kindly advice; it is a command. We are to be thankful to Christ Jesus for what He has done for us.

He left His kingly glory and came to earth for us; He lived to show us the right way to live; He died, to purchase salvation from sin for us; He rose from the grave to give eternal life and heaven hereafter to us, and as Paul said, "Thanks be unto God for his unspeadable gift." Be grateful that Christ was in history; that the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us. For it takes more than a President's or a governor's proclamation to generate thanksgiving in the heart, it takes the Son of God, Jesus Christ.

3. His Revelation A Basis For Praise

Let us thank God for the matchless light and power of the Holy Scripture. Let us offer our thanksgiving because this supreme and sublime book is God-breathed and God-revealed. Let us be grateful that it is supernatural in origin, unerring in guidance, regenerative in force, timeless in appropriateness deathless in destiny. Man's hand may be behind its penmanship, but God's heart is behind its authorship; so let us be thankful that we can read and believe it in the dictates of our own hearts.

4. Our Precious Legacies A Point For Praise

Thank God for the founders and leaders of the past and present. Thank God for George Washington, the leader of America's independence and as first President of our country. Thank God for Abraham Lincoln who joined the states into one big happy family. Thank God for the great leaders of the present day who still stand for democracy. Thank God for our heritage of faith and doctrine. Thank God for our great institutions of learning. Thank God for our missionaries in the harvest fields so ripe, and last of all and above all people, we should be thankful at this thanksgiving season, not only because of our heritage in the past, but because our future in God is sure to be glorious. So in order to follow Paul's pattern of praise, let us make sure that we keep acquainted with Paul's Christ.

Famed Riverside Church Organist Will Play Here

Virgil Fox, called by many critics the world's greatest organist, will appear here for the third consecutive year on Thursday, January 17, at Centre Street Methodist Church.

The famed organist will play here again under the auspices of the Cumberland Choral Society, according to Society Director Jack Platt.

Fox is regular organist at Riverside Church in New York City. He is one of the few Protestant organists ever granted permission to play the organ at The Vatican in Rome.

Two years ago, when Fox played his first concert in Cumberland, there was a near capacity audience. Last January, when he appeared here for the second time, more than 1,250 persons crowded into the church.

This will be a free concert with an offering being taken.

Meanwhile, Platt announced that Norman Myvrik, New York City, will be among the four featured soloists when the Cumberland Choral Society presents Handel's "Messiah" in the Fort Hill High School auditorium at 8:15 p. m. Thursday, December 6.

The last two summers Myvrik sang with the Chautauqua, N. Y., Symphony. A few years ago he toured Europe with a concert quartet. A graduate of Julliard School of Music in New York City, he was also a soloist at Temple Emmanuel.

Other "Messiah" soloists will be Barbara Troxell, Metropolitan Opera star; Lucile Cummings, who appears on the Telephone Hour, and William Maun, baritone soloist of Radio City Music Hall.

Trooper C. H. DeWitt said the two were riding in a truck which failed to negotiate a turn. The door on Helman's side came open and he fell to the road.

His son remained in the machine as it struck a tree, crashed against a power pole, hit the front steps of a house occupied by Clarence Carter, Route 1, Frostburg, and then upset. The boy suffered a slight laceration of the right knee.

The truck, owned by John Rogers, of Keyser, W. Va., was headed toward Clarysville when the accident occurred. Hoffman Road is located between Wright's Crossing and Vale Summit Road.

Suit Charges Old Debt Unpaid

A suit over a debt allegedly incured 22 years ago is docketed for trial today in Allegany County Circuit Court.

James L. Tunney, 217 Glenn Street, through Attorney William L. Wilson, Jr., filed suit for $5,000 against Chester D. Sowers, Highland Park, Mich., formerly of Cumberland. Tunney contends that Sowers borrowed $2,100 from him in 1929 and never repaid. He asks for $5,000, which he says includes the $2,100, plus interest.

Sowers, who is represented by Attorneys Walter C. Capper and Thomas N. Berry, denies the indebtedness and says that the alleged cause of action did not accrue within 20 years.

Tunney charges that Sowers made a promise to pay the debt two years ago which renewed his liability.

An attachment was obtained against Sowers' holdings in Cumberland. The First National Bank of Cumberland, filed an answer of garnishee stating that Sowers had $560.50 in a checking account and $12,014.36 in a savings account.

Weather Postpones Search For Body Of Third Airman In B-26 Crash Near Oakland

Air Force Discloses Identity Of Victims

BULLETIN

LANGLEY AIR FORCE BASE, Va. — A Langley spokesman said last night the Air Force has high hopes of finding Lt. Prentice E. Ross, Jr., alive. He said the searchers believe Ross may have bailed out and landed in dense undergrowth on the mountainside.

The spokesman said 12 planes of the West Virginia Wing of the Civil Air Patrol are scheduled to join the search today, along with an Air Force helicopter and a twin-engine amphibious plane.

Snow and sub-freezing temperatures last night stalled the search for a third man believed dead in the crash of an Air Force B-26 near Aurora, W. Va.

Officers at Langley Air Force Base identified the missing man as First Lt. Prentice E. Ross, Jr., whose wife, Mrs. Dorothy Phyllis Ross, lives at Hampton, Va. Lt. Ross originally was from Fort Worth, Texas.

Bodies already found near the scene of Friday's crash were those of First Lt. Jerome J. Walsh, the pilot, whose mother, Mrs. Frieda J. Walsh, lives in Milwaukee, Wis., and First Lt. William L. Langdon, navigator, whose mother, Mrs. Rose Munsen Langdon, lives in Moorestown, N. J.

Search Called Off

Last night, First Lt. Arthur Calhoun, commanding officer of the 121st Engineer Combat Battalion, National Guard, at Oakland, said his company's 20-man volunteer rescue team called off the search at sunset.

There was no clue to indicate that Lt. Ross, an observer on the Pittsburgh-to-Langley Field flight was still alive in the rugged mountain country of Preston County, W. Va.

Searchers yesterday combed an area about two miles north of the scene of the crash, but failed to turn up any new evidence.

On Saturday morning, near the Maryland line two miles east of the crash scene, they found a map believed to have been used by Lt. Walsh, the pilot. Master Sergeant John W. Schaeffer, first sergeant of the Oakland Guard unit, said the map indicated the light bomber was "right on course."

Parachute Unopened

They found Walsh's body Saturday afternoon. Schaeffer said the body was in a crouched position near the Brookside Church east of Aurora.

Walsh was wearing an unopened parachute, the pull-ring still in the harness pocket. Air Force officers theorized he was blown from the ship without a chance to open the chute.

Lt. Langdon's body was found shortly after the crash. His navigator's log indicated the Langley-based plane had taken off from Pittsburgh at 4:56 p. m. Friday on the return leg of a routine training flight.

Air Force spokesmen said the three Air Force Reserve officers were attached to the 4400th Combat Crew Training Group at Langley.

Saw Plane Explode

Marsh Shaffer, 77-year-old Eglon, W. Va., farmer, said he saw the crash just off West Virginia State Route 24. Shaffer said the plane dropped a flare, which caught in the tail assembly and set it afire. The plane then spiraled toward the ground and exploded while still 200 feet in the air.

An engine broke apart from the plane and crashed into Shaffer's farm home, but no one in the house was injured. The rest of the plane was scattered over six acres some distance away.

Also participating in the search yesterday and Saturday were West Virginia State Police and members of the 105th Engineer Combat Battalion, Morgantown, W. Va., and other volunteers.

The crash was the third B-26 crash involving Langley fliers in 10 days. Two men died November 5 and three more were killed Thursday night in attempted landings at the field.

Hess Receives Bronze Star For Heroism

Sfc. William V. Hess, 112 Karns Avenue, has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal by Secretary of the Army Frank Pace, Jr., for heroism in ground combat in Korea, it was announced yesterday by Col. Arthur L. Shreve, Chief of the Maryland Military District, Baltimore.

The citation accompany the medal reads:

"Sergeant First Class William V. Hess, Infantry, Company A, 27th Infantry United States Army: On 3 June 1951, Sergeant First Class Hess' unit launched an assault on commanding positions near Pyogyog-am, Korea. When his squad was ordered to withdraw after encountering withering automatic weapons fire, he secured an exposed vantage point and laid down a base of covering fire while his men displaced to safety. After assisting the wounded to the base of the ridge, he reorganized his squad for a second attack.

Halfway up the fire-swept slope, he was wounded by a mortar fragment but continued to press on toward the hostile emplacements. His aggressive spirit so inspired his men that they charged over the crest and routed the enemy from the ridge. Sergeant Hess' courage, resolute leadership and selfless devotion to duty reflect great credit on himself, his unit and the American soldier. Entered military service from Maryland."

A veteran of World War II, having served in the European theater, Hess entered the service in 1941 and was discharged in 1946. A member of the inactive reserve, he was called back to duty in October of last year.

He attended Allegany High School, prior to entry into the army.

Moose Lodges End Three-Day Session Here

A fellowship breakfast yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock and the conferring of the Fellowship Degree featured the closing sessions of a three day mid-winter conclave of the Maryland Moose Association here.

Due to the weather a general meeting of members of the Moose and Auxiliaries at the Beall Street home was postponed as those in attendance from the Eastern part of the United States returned to their homes.

The breakfast was well attended and 18 candidates received the degree according to Lonnie Jackson, governor of Cumberland Lodge No. 271, host for the conclave.

The degree, Jackson added, was conferred on candidates from Maryland by a team of Pilgrims headed by Frank J. Davis.

A dinner-dance was held Saturday night with Rep. J. Glenn Beall as guest speaker. He lauded the Moose for their efforts in behalf of children and the aged.

Among the visiting notables at the dinner-dance was Sal Maglie, a life member of the Moose in his hometown of Niagara Falls, N. Y., and a star pitcher for the New York Giants of the National League.

Dr. H. C. "Curly" Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, opened the three-day program by directing the initiation of a class of 100 candidates Friday night. He praised the Moose program and said if such fraternal groups were worldwide then we could all look forward to a continuing life of peace.

Besides Dr. Byrd, guests at the event included Dr. A. C. Monninger, Baltimore, supreme councilman of the Moose; Ralph D. Moore, of Illinois, general governor of the Moose, and Gordon Jeffrey, of Toledo, Ohio, Mooseheart governor and supreme lodge executive committeeman.

Also attending were John C. Meikle, secretary of Mooseheart Board of Governors at Washington, D. C., and John J. Stoeher, regional director for Ohio, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, and District of Columbia.

Honorary chairmen for the event were Rep. J. Glenn Beall, Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris, and former Judges Walter C. Capper and Oliver H. Bruce, Jr.

Floyd Warnick "Not Guilty" In Arson Cases

Piedmont Man Sent To Asylum By Judge

Floyd C. Warnick, 34-year-old Piedmont, W. Va. man, who was charged with four separate cases of arson, was found not guilty Saturday afternoon in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Judge Morgan C. Harris, officiating at the trial, ruled Warnick not guilty of arson in the four cases on the grounds that he was insane at the time and was insane at the time of trial.

Judge Harris ordered Warnick committed to the Spring Grove State Hospital until he is seen fit to live without constant surveillance. However, he stipulated that the Allegany County Circuit Court approve of his release from the mental institution in order that the judge here could have a check on Warnick's return to Western Maryland.

While Warnick was charged with starting two brush fires, burning a corn crib and a shanty, all in the Westernport area during the reign of terror that compassed the Tri-State section for over a year, he confessed to starting fires in Garrett and Mineral counties.

He blamed his deeds on his war service. One psychologist who examined him, Dr. Manfred Guttmacher, said he could not understand how a person with an intellect as low as Warnick's could be taken into the Army.

Judge Harris highly praised the law enforcement officers who worked long and hard to break the arson series. Four youths have been convicted of starting fires in the Tri-Towns area and are now serving long terms in state prison.

Today's Sermonette

Giving thanks for all things unto God and the Father in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ. Ephesians 5:20

By REV. JOSEPH D. BYERS

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at the Church of the Nazarene, Frostburg, by the pastor, Rev. Joseph D. Byers. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

Giving Thanks

As we approach the season of Thanksgiving with war clouds overshadowing us, homes being broken, individual dreams shattered, we ask the question, "How can there be a true Thanksgiving?"

As the Apostle Paul called on those Christians at Ephesus to join him in the holy exercise of thanksgiving, let us also join in and give thanks.

1. The Object Of Praise

If thanksgiving is "the declarative mood of gratitude," to whom should the declaration be made? Our text answers in one simple, sublime phrase, "Unto God." Who giveth every good and perfect gift. Thank the God whose heavens declare His glory and whose firmament showeth His handiwork. Thank God, "Who hath measured the waters in the hollow of his hand, and meted out heaven with a span, and comprehended the dust of the earth in a measure, and weighed the mountains in scales, and the hills in a balance."

Thank God, who pours the light of morning over the horizon of every day. He sends the clean breezes; colors the flowers, "openeth his hand, and feedeth every living thing. Thank God, who is the Creator behind all creation, the Wisdom behind all philosophy, the Fact behind all science, the Purpose behind all history, the Lover behind all love, the Giver behind all gifts. There was a Christian farmer who placed on his weathervane "God is love." When asked by the unbelieving neighbor if that meant that God's love was as changeable as the weather, he replied: "No, it rather means whichever way the wind blows, God is love." Thank God He is always the same.

2. The Obligation Of Praise

This surely is another part of the Pauline pattern of praise. Rightly understood, our text is more than kindly advice; it is a command. We are to be thankful to Christ Jesus for what He has done for us.

He left His kingly glory and came to earth for us; He lived to show us the right way to live; He died, to purchase salvation from sin for us; He rose from the grave to give eternal life and heaven hereafter to us, and as Paul said, "Thanks be unto God for his unspeadable gift." Be grateful that Christ was in history; that the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us. For it takes more than a President's or a governor's proclamation to generate thanksgiving in the heart, it takes the Son of God, Jesus Christ.

3. His Revelation A Basis For Praise

Let us thank God for the matchless light and power of the Holy Scripture. Let us offer our thanksgiving because this supreme and sublime book is God-breathed and God-revealed. Let us be grateful that it is supernatural in origin, unerring in guidance, regenerative in force, timeless in appropriateness deathless in destiny. Man's hand may be behind its penmanship, but God's heart is behind its authorship; so let us be thankful that we can read and believe it in the dictates of our own hearts.

4. Our Precious Legacies A Point For Praise

Thank God for the founders and leaders of the past and present. Thank God for George Washington, the leader of America's independence and as first President of our country. Thank God for Abraham Lincoln who joined the states into one big happy family. Thank God for the great leaders of the present day who still stand for democracy. Thank God for our heritage of faith and doctrine. Thank God for our great institutions of learning. Thank God for our missionaries in the harvest fields so ripe, and last of all and above all people, we should be thankful at this thanksgiving season, not only because of our heritage in the past, but because our future in God is sure to be glorious. So in order to follow Paul's pattern of praise, let us make sure that we keep acquainted with Paul's Christ.

Famed Riverside Church Organist Will Play Here

Virgil Fox, called by many critics the world's greatest organist, will appear here for the third consecutive year on Thursday, January 17, at Centre Street Methodist Church.

The famed organist will play here again under the auspices of the Cumberland Choral Society, according to Society Director Jack Platt.

Fox is regular organist at Riverside Church in New York City. He is one of the few Protestant organists ever granted permission to play the organ at The Vatican in Rome.

This will be a free concert with an offering being taken.

Meanwhile, Platt announced that Norman Myvrik, New York City, will be among the four featured soloists when the Cumberland Choral Society presents Handel's "Messiah" in the Fort Hill High School auditorium at 8:15 p. m. Thursday, December 6.

The last two summers Myvrik sang with the Chautauqua, N. Y., Symphony. A few years ago he Tunney contends that Sowers borrowed $2,100 from him in 1929 and never repaid. He asks for $5,000, which he says includes the $2,100, plus interest.

Sowers, who is represented by Attorneys Walter C. Capper and Thomas N. Berry, denies the indebtedness and says that the alleged cause of action did not accrue within 20 years.

Tunney charges that Sowers made a promise to pay the debt two years ago which renewed his liability.
